Democrats Press For Tuesday Vote On Jobless Pay

ALBANY (AP)—Democrats in the Legislature will call for a show-down vote tomorrow on Gov. Harriman's bill for raising weekly payments to unemployed workers to $45.

Pointing to what they called a "new wave of unemployment" in the state, the Democratic minority leaders declared yesterday the Legislature could afford to delay no longer.

Democrat Plan

Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan said fellow Democrats would move to force the bill out of Republican-controlled committees and onto the floor for a vote.

The measure would raise the maximum benefit of unemployment insurance from $36 a week. Republicans have agreed to the increase but insist upon boosting the payroll tax on seasonal industries at the same time. GOP riders to this effect prompted Harriman to veto their bills twice last year.

Want Immediate Action

Bannigan and Zaretzki argued that the situation called for immediate action. They said Harriman's bill would "help immeasurably to cushion the impact of

Palen Boy Still Critical Today From Truck Hurts

Michael Palen, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Palen, 143 Jansen Avenue, badly injured when he slipped under the wheels of a truck on Cedar Street Saturday was reported still in critical condition at Kingston Hospital today, but was showing improvement.

Extent of Injuries

A police report early Saturday afternoon said the dual tractor wheels ran over the boy's chest and stomach as he was about to cross Cedar Street near Broadway and the truck was turning right into Cedar Street.

Extent of Injuries

His major injury was reported to be a torn diaphragm resulting in injuries to the lungs and stomach.

The mishap was the second in a week in which a local boy was injured. William Rattley, 8, of 218 Catherine Street, injured Jan. 18 at East Strand and Tompkins Street, when, riding a sled, he struck the rear wheel of a local bus, was reported still in critical condition at the Albany Hospital, but is apparently showing

Track Boom Is Hope Of State for Funds

ALBANY (AP)—State officials are betting on a boom year at New York race tracks to help keep the 1958-59 budget in balance.

They also believe that New Yorkers, in the months ahead, will smoke more and drink at least as much as last year.

Budget experts are counting on a new harness track at Monticello and longer racing seasons to net the state a banner 77 million dollars in pari-mutuel receipts, nearly 2½ million more than the record tax collections this summer.

Noting that cigarette manufacturers consider that smoking is up 3 per cent, the state expects an increased tax take of a cool million over the $42,300,000 estimated for the current fiscal year.

The consumption of alcoholic beverages, particularly liquor, was off slightly this year from peak 1956-57. Still, the state expects this tax collection to jump $700,000 over the $52,800,000 collections in the current year.

Funeral Tuesday

Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at St. Mary's Episcopal Church in nearby Portsmouth.

Burial will be in St. Mary's Churchyard next to the body of his daughter, Eleanor, killed in a plane crash in Matunuck, R. I., in 1941.

Attended Meeting

Only a few days ago, Young presided at a meeting of the railroad board of directors at which it was voted not to declare a dividend for the present.

New York Central's earnings for December and 1957 were expected to be announced today but two men in Young's financial empire said in advance finances had nothing to do with Young's suicide.

Young was a native of Canadian, Tex.

Hard Fighter

He formerly was president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad and in 1954 gained control of the New York Central after a rough battle.

Last November it was proposed to merge the New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroad. James M. Symes, president of the Pennsylvania, said Young's suicide "should not affect the merger prospect." Spokesmen for New York Central said discussion of the possible merger would continue.

Siren to Sound Noon

The new automatic siren at the Kripplush Firehouse will sound one long blast daily, except Sunday at 12 noon, it was announced today by John Kuhlmann, secretary of the fire company. The siren will blow at noon Tuesday for the first time.

9W-32 Bridge Link Work Reported Progressing

Construction of the highway connecting routes 9W and 32 and the western approach of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge "is progressing satisfactorily," a report of the New York State Bridge Authority noted today.

The contractor, the Grand View Construction Co., of Mt. Vernon, has been grading, blasting and back-filling, the report said, and will continue the work through the winter "as the weather permits."

Progress is also considered satisfactory with the new road to connect the bridge on the east side with U. S. Route 9. The project is being aided for and is under control of the State Department of Public Works. Grading, drainage and blasting is also due to continue there as the weather permits.

John S. Stillman, authority chairman, emphasized that the 7,558,655 vehicles using the four Hudson River bridges under control of the authority in 1957 was 9.2 per cent above the estimated 6,920,000 by Madigan-Hyland.

GOP Plan Opposes Any Hikes

Income Increases Desired April 15

ALBANY (AP)—Gov. Harriman today sent the Legislature a record-shattering $1,800,800,000 budget that calls for a 43-million boost in income taxes—up to $35 a taxpayer.

He also warned the lawmakers that, unless they raised the state gasoline tax from 4 to 5 cents a gallon, the state would soon have to cut back its big highway construction program.

The income tax increases would take effect on returns due April 15, if the Legislature's Republican majorities are willing to raise taxes in this election year.

GOP Opposition

GOP leaders have indicated, to the contrary, that they will send Harriman a bill that would hold taxes at the current level. A veto would be used against him in his drive for re-election next fall.

The Democratic governor said he would have to draw $123,700,000 from bond funds and $90,300,000 from construction reserves to balance his budget. State spending would be increased by 142 million dollars in the fiscal year beginning April 1.

His heavy withdrawal from reserve funds indicated to some observers that there might be even further tax increases next year.

Harriman said that, because he had to tap the bond and reserve funds, it would be "inconsistent and imprudent" to try to retain the income tax abatement of the last two years.

On the other hand, Harriman proposed to continue a $1,300,000 tax abatement for small businesses and a $750,000 easement for bus companies—to help them "in resisting the current economic decline."

The governor also looked to the road building program to "help offset the growing unemployment throughout the state." He recommended spending 316 million for new highways.

Spending Proposals

His new spending proposals included:

1. An extra $4,900,000 in school

March of Dimes Revue Will Feature Airmen Tonight at 8

The March of Dimes Revue, annual polio benefit variety show, featuring Air Force personnel from Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, and several acts of area talent, will be presented today at 8 p. m. at Kingston High School Auditorium.

The variety show, which annually attracts a capacity audience, will last two and a half hours.

Featured on the Air Force base will be the Del Vikings, well known rock and roll recording unit, which has made recent appearances on national television shows; Karen LaPorte

Davis, vocalist, and Del Robinson, comic, among others.

Arrangements for their appearance here to help combat polio were made by Sgt. Larry Snyder, local Air Force recruiter who, two years ago, brought a similar group from Griffiths Air Force Base, Rome, to entertain for polio.

Donald MacIsaac and Dick McCarthy, co-chairmen, reported today that tickets sales indicated another capacity audience for tonight's show.

"We're grateful to Sgt. Snyder for arranging for the appearance of the Stewart Air Base personnel and we know that they will entertain in the same

Dulles Assures Baghdad Pact Nations Support Against Reds

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles told leaders of the five Baghdad Pact nations today the United States will support their nations with "mobile power of great force" against any Communist invasion.

Dulles' keynote speech at the opening of the Middle East alliance's ministerial council meeting emphasized that any potential aggressor "knows in advance that his losses from aggression would far exceed any possible gains."

But, he said, "if perchance deterrence fails" the United States will contribute its mobile power to save the people of the Middle East.

Alliance Formed In '55

The secretary of state is attending a conference for the first time since the alliance was formed in 1955.

A few hours before he spoke one bomb blew out the rear wall of a U. S. Embassy warehouse and another badly damaged a private bookshop—called the American Publication Book Store—near the U. S. Information Service. No one was injured.

Premier Adnan Menderes of Turkey formally opened the con-

How Budget Has Grown

ALBANY (AP)—Gov. Harriman's new budget would raise state spending by almost a half-billion dollars over what he proposed the first year he took office.

Here's how the budget has grown during his administration:

1955-56	$1,310,000,000
1956-57	$1,434,000,000
1957-58	$1,658,000,000
1958-59	$1,800,800,000

Gas Hike Stressed For Roads

ALBANY (AP)—Gov. Harriman today proposed a 36½-million-dollar highway construction program—an increase of 66½ million—but told legislators the pace could not continue without a gasoline tax increase.

The program for the 1958-59 fiscal year includes federal aid of 147½ million. Along with maintenance outlays, the cost of the whole program totals more than 480 million.

Asks Fund Division

At the same time, the governor urged the Republican-dominated Legislature to press Congress to give New York a more favorable division of new interstate highway funds.

He said that, because the completed 560-mile Thruway was counted as interstate highway mileage and was subtracted from the state's allotment, New York "is not going to fare very well" unless the program is changed.

State expenditures for the new program are estimated at 318 million—or about 17.7 per cent of all projected state expenditures.

40-Million Boost

The figure is a 40-million-dollar boost from last year's level and makes up about 26 per cent of the total increase in state expenditures, the governor said.

Federal aid is expected to run about 31 million over last year. As he reviewed the state's progress in highway building, Harriman said he "must remind" law-

HEAVIEST SNOWFALL TO DATE—Paul Mochtura, of 47 Linderman Avenue, pauses while shoveling out his car to note for photographer that Saturday's snowfall was the heaviest of the year in this area. Max Oppenheimer, acting superintendent of the Department of Public Works, reported five inches of snow fell on the city from 7 a. m. Saturday until early that same afternoon. Sanding and plowing crews were kept busy until early in the afternoon when heavy rain, which continued intermittently over the weekend, dissipated much of the snowfall, but made for slushy traveling on streets and sidewalks. ### Education Will Cost 54 Million More in 58

ALBANY (AP)—Education of New York youth will cost the state a $54 million increase in fiscal 1958-59, nearly 54 million more than last year, Gov. Harriman estimated today.

Thirty-six per cent of the total budget—double that of any other category—presumably will be spent on the state's 1,100 Red Schoolhouse to the sprawling State University.

Program Expands

Mushrooming school populations make much of the increases automatic through operation of mandated formulas: $40,800,000 more to local school districts, $1,900,000 to support increasing enrollments and new teachers in the State University and 2 million to meet annual increments in state scholarships.

In announcing his 1958-59 budget, Harriman provided for two proposals by the Board of Regents designed to strengthen the state's position in science and mathematics. Other regents' proposals, he added, will need further study.

More For Scholarships

Harriman said doubling to 1,000 the number of science and mathematics scholarships would cost $319,000 in the coming fiscal year and $1,400,000 after four years.

The state will spend $600,000, he said, to help 1,400 teachers of science and mathematics attend summer refresher courses. Under the plan, the state would pay tuition, and board for 700 teachers and tuition only for the other 700.

The closing of large numbers of schools during the Asian flu outbreak last fall, Harriman said, called attention "to the disturbing fiscal impact which such outbreaks can have on the state aid system." He said bad weather

Mountain Slide

As the car, operated by Walter H. Brown, 56, of 613 Broadway, was proceeding toward Kingston, the side of the mountain suddenly gave way, causing the two trees to fall across the road. It is believed that the slide was caused by recent heavy rains.

One of the trees smashed across the front of the car. Seconds later, while the occupants of the car huddled anxiously inside, a second tree fell across the back of the vehicle.

Warned by Passerby

Mrs. Brown, a passenger, told The Freeman today that just after the first tree fell they were warned by a shout from a motorist driving behind them not to attempt to get out of the car, that another tree was about to fall.

At that instant the second

Authority of Town Board, Supervisor Forum Topics

The extent of town board authority and the traditional role of the town supervisor in relation to the functions of the town board were among topics spotlighted at the open forum sponsored by the Woodstock Democratic Club Friday night at Deane's.

Approximately 50 persons heard two speakers outline the history and functions of town government and then answered questions posed by the audience.

Kellar, Mable Speakers

Attorney Norman Kellar of Kingston, attorney for the New York State Tax Commission, and Roger Mable, Democratic supervisor of the Town of Esopus, were the speakers. A third scheduled speaker, Lewis Salkover, economics instructor at New Paltz State Teachers College, was unable to attend because of illness. Kenneth Downer, president of the club, introduced the speakers.

Supervisor Mable detailed the duties and power of the town board, budget procedures, public hearings, ordinances and other related items.

Wields Authority

By law and tradition, the supervisor, who serves as chairman of the town board meetings, has tremendous authority and wields great influence on the

Security Needed in Space Era

Youth Training Is Cited in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today sent Congress a four-year, $1,600,000,000 federal-state program of aid for education. The blueprint aims to help America best Russia in science and technology.

The President told the lawmakers in a special message that the nation's immediate security aims in this space era "can be furthered only by the efforts of individuals whose training is already far advanced."

Must Keep Position

But he added that if the United States is to maintain a position of leadership, "we must see to it that today's young people are prepared to contribute the maximum to our future progress."

He said further: "Because of the growing importance of science and technology, we must necessarily give special—but by no means exclusive—attention to education in science and engineering."

10,000 Scholarships

The program Eisenhower sent to the Capitol was first announced in detail by Secretary of Welfare Folsom last Dec. 30. Among other things, it calls for granting 10,000 scholarships annually for four years, with emphasis on courses in science and mathematics.

The President also called for granting graduate fellowships to bolster teaching strength, again with emphasis on science and technology. His message mentioned no specific number of such fellowships, but Folsom said last month the program contemplates providing 1,000 the first year and 1,500 annually for each of the next three years.

No Cost Figures

Eisenhower's message contained no cost figures. But White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the estimate remains the same as Folsom announced—about $1,600,000 over four years.

Of that, the federal government would contribute about one billion dollars, and the states and local communities about 600 million dollars.

Method of Handling

"The method of accomplishment is sound: the keystone is state, local and private effort; the federal role is to assist—not to control or supplant—those efforts."

He said that "for the increased support our educational system now requires, we must look primarily to citizens and parents acting in their own communities, school boards and city councils, teachers, principals, school superintendents, state boards of education and state legislatures, trustees and faculties of private institutions."

Temporary Program

He emphasized that the administration program would be regarded as a temporary one.

The federal budget for the year which begins July 1 includes $225 million to finance the program during the first year of operation. Of that total, 145 million is earmarked for the Health, Education and Welfare Department, and about 80 million for the National Science Foundation.

In his message dealing with the business transacted by the board.

Authority of

The supervisor may call meetings, cancel or postpone them. He is responsible for the frequency of meetings and many of his executive decisions are irrevocable.

Mable pointed out that the frequency and number of town board meetings will vary according to the locality. He said he hoped to hold Town of Esopus meetings every second Wednesday of the month. Supervisor Robert Pardee (R) of the Town of Ulster said the Ulster board meets twice a month in order to cope with the mounting expansion problems of that area.

Regular Meetings Needed

Both supervisors agreed that it was in the public interest to hold regular meetings. They said regular meeting dates would enable more people to attend and both urged public participation. This would accomplish a two-fold purpose. It would reduce public apathy in town government affairs and create an alert public which is the foundation for all good government.

The speakers also declared that well attended meetings would also enable the town board to better determine and ascertain the needs and opinions of the taxpayer.

Two Members Can Issue Call

Mrs. Tobie Geertsema, independent member of the Woodstock Town Board, pointed out in a discussion on town board meeting agendas that items for consideration at these sessions may be submitted in writing to the town clerk the first day of each month. She also said that the chairman of the board must call a meeting if requested by at least two members of the board.

All proceedings of the town board shall open to the public according to law, Mable said,

"The extension enrollment has nearly tripled," he said, "since the 1953-54 school year when 775 persons were registered."

Dr. Hagerty attributed this tremendous increase to the demand made by teachers in the area for additional graduate and advanced undergraduate courses. "The college," he emphasized, "is making every effort to meet these demands and to provide the schools of New York with more and better qualified teachers."

Registration and the first meeting of the spring classes will be held in various centers from February 10 to 13. Most of the courses will meet 15 times for three credits, and a fee of $15 per credit must be paid at the first meeting.

Soviet Is Unlikely to Agree On Disarmament Proposals

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's no real togetherness in dancing with a bear. It never leads to going steady.

We've been waltzing with the Russian Bear since World War II — on disarmament — and agreement still looks, if not impossible, years away.

Disagreeable While Trailing
The Russians wouldn't agree when they were away behind; when we had the monopoly on atomic weapons and superiority in planes to deliver them.

They're not likely to agree now when they have atomic weapons, are ahead in missiles, and may soon be ahead in planes.

What the world faces is a continued and enormous arms buildup and then one of these two possibilities:

1. A gigantic stalemate in which, because both sides have the power to destroy each other, neither will take risks.
2. A Russian gamble. When it has the power to destroy the United States—if this country attempts to stop aggression—Russia may start endless small aggressions.

Policy Gamble
That policy would be a gamble that the United States, facing annihilation in a big war, would not start a big one to stop a small one. Meanwhile, both sides laid down disarmament terms neither will accept. Since neither trusts the other, both have this problem:

Publisher Dies

ROCHESTER (AP)—John I. Wellington, 83, former publisher of the weekly East Rochester Herald, died yesterday of a heart attack while he was at church.

He worked for publishing companies in Dansville, Livingston County, and New York City and was assistant city editor of the old Rochester Post Express for several years before World War I. In 1932, he bought controlling interest in the weekly and was editor and publisher for ten years.

The members of the Ulster-Greene Dental Society in an effort to clarify the recent press release of Dr. Murray J. Fletcher, wish to publish the following information for the benefit of the public:

On Monday, January 20th, The Kingston Freeman carried a newspaper story that described a dental engine which Dr. Fletcher and Mr. Julius Sobsey will attempt to patent and market. While the elements contained in the article are substantially true, the implications in the story have created a great deal of confusion in the public mind. Your dentist, as well as the vast majority of dentists in our Society, have been besieged by questions and inquiries. We feel that our patients deserve the facts.

The turbo-jet type (or high speed) dental motor, about which you read, has been on the market for several years. The majority of dentists in Ulster and Greene counties are now using them routinely. There are many varieties of these motors just as there are many varieties of automatic gear shifts in automobiles. For instance: Hydramatic, Dynaflo, Teletouch, etc., etc., basically have the same purpose and perform the same functions in the driving of an automobile as the numerous kinds of high-speed motors perform in the dental office. Dr. Fletcher and Mr. Sobsey will attempt to patent one more variation. Whether the United States Patent Office will grant a patent, and then, whether dentists throughout the country will consider the motor equal or superior to those now on the market, only time and experience will tell.

The Ulster-Greene Dental Society wants to assure the public that your dentist, and every dentist in the United States, has access to all the equipment and medicaments which are beneficial to you. We have no magic box, no miracle pills—and most important, no secrets in our professional fraternity. What we do have is a desire and determination to explore and use every means possible to improve the dental health of all the people.

SWITCH ON TAX CUT

In the light of the expressed attitudes of the Eisenhower administration over the years, it has been widely assumed that the President or his top financial officers would never propose a tax cut when the outlook for a budget surplus was either shaky or virtually hopeless.

Thus Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson occasioned something of a surprise by saying a tax cut might be proposed if the current business downturn grew much worse than it is.

The theory behind this proposal is, of course, not at all new. It is simply that in times when business demand has softened, a tax cut operates as a stimulus to improvement because it leaves more money in people's pockets.

A government regime which does not worry too much about deficit financing might quickly embrace this weapon against recession. But from the outset the Eisenhower administration has been firmly committed to keeping the budget balanced.

Anderson's statement represents a clear departure. For the prospect both in the current fiscal year and for the coming one is not good for a balanced budget.

Mr. Eisenhower himself forecast a deficit this year, but predicted a 500-million-dollar surplus in the 12 months starting in July. Most seasoned financial observers felt, however, that his prophecy was founded on very shaky assumptions, and that a deficit next year was more likely.

One administration assumption was that Congress would agree to substantial reductions in such domestic programs as farm aid. The other was that business would indeed get better in the months ahead.

Few believe the lawmakers will vote slashes in domestic programs in an election year. Many economists would support the forecast of better business, but admittedly it is guesswork.

Obviously, a tax cut placed together with an already touch-and-go budget situation would create a strong likelihood of government red ink in the 1958-59 year. For this administration to talk deliberately of moving in that direction is definitely a turn-about.

Naturally the hope would be that the business response to tax reduction would be so sharp that in time the budget would come back to balance. But it would be just a hope in the beginning.

Whether this is a year of promise or not, we don't know. But with an election coming up, it will certainly be a year of promises.

The question arises: Will the moon ever replace Niagara Falls as a honeymoon destination?

BALLOTS AND PREMIUMS

In North Miami Beach, Fla., a civic group recently came up with an idea to get people out to vote. Each voter who showed up at the polls received 100 trading stamps, redeemable for premiums.

The civic group which conceived the idea was sincere. It is a laudable thing to encourage citizens to take full part in the election of their government. But it is doubtful whether the method accomplished any real good. In a way it might have had the opposite effect.

Is our heritage so valueless that we must give premiums to people to have them accept it. Good men fought and died so that we can govern ourselves as free men. Was their sacrifice so meaningless that we can enjoy its fruits only if we are given an added material reward?

It is not enough to get people to the polls. That part of the job, while it is important, is only a small part. People should go to the voting places because they want to go. They should approach the polls in a spirit of dedication, aware of the price that was paid for their right to do so peacefully. They must know that the decision they are to make is a solemn one. If we can

TOLL T.V.

It would seem to me that Congress ought to leave the question of "Toll T.V." or "Advertisers' T.V." to the consumer. After all, if you or I are willing to pay a quarter to see Ward Bond drive a wagon, while boy kisses girl and the Indians hoopa, that ought to be our option. There can be no public reason for opposing Toll T.V., although there may be many private ones.

Recently, having become more sedentary, I like, very late at night, to turn on an old-fashioned movie, some of which are very amusing. But I grow weary of having the sequence interrupted by a girl dancing a ballet in front of a box of soap or a fellow with a beard shaving it off, or a woman squinting some stuff on herself to avoid smelling like a human being. These interruptions spoil the picture for me, and therefore I am aroused emotionally against the products. It would be worth two quarters to see the pictures without the interruptions.

But what is even worse than the interruptions is the extremely low quality of the advertisements. Do you really believe that one filter tip is superior to another and that if you have a headache one kind of stuff gets rid of it faster than the other?

If this is true, the FTC is doing a very bad job because it should not permit the inferior commodity to advertise at all. Besides, I don't have a headache and I hate anyone who suggests that I may have a headache. The suggestion might bring me on. So now, I have a device which someone sent me that knocks everything off the air which I reject. But most of the time I forget to use it.

I simply leave the room when the bad advertising comes on. Who needs to know how women make their hair look fancy? When I was young, all that interested me was that a girl was attractive. Nowadays, it is doubly so because I am reaching those years of wisdom and selectivity when beauty is its own reward.

Why spoil my illusions by telling me that the young thing really looks like an old hag, but she has some stuff which she buys in a drug store that removes or erases all her blemishes, all marks of character and refinement, that colors her hair and shades her eyebrows and distorts her mouth and sets her hair and gives her curls, natural and unnatural?

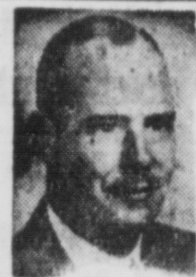

All I want to do is to escape for an hour, before going to bed, from the trials and tribulations of life and politics and Nikita Khrushchev and George Kennan, the Sputnik and the Recession, and watch a tough guy murder a dame and get caught by a cop who nearly loses an arm and a leg doing it. Having thus been lulled to peace, I gently sigh at the normalcy of life in familiar surroundings. But no! Even before I can lift myself from a soft chaise longue, I am told how to clean a sewer.

I willingly would pay four quarters not to be told how to clean a sewer. I have just seen virtue triumph over vice; I have just seen Humphrey Bogart get his just deserts—but no! I must also be told how to clean a sewer. I don't own a sewer. All I want is to see a picture and I'm willing to pay to see it.

There is a committee of Congress called House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee which has to pass on this subject. It is said that a combination of networks and theatre-owners are organized against natural human progress, namely "Toll T.V." I don't blame them. The networks make money from advertising and the movie houses are having a tough time as it is.

However, a little competition might help them both to improve their product which is pretty poor. Whenever it is necessary to put a sign in a theatre marked, "Applause" which flashes on, and off urgently when applause is desirable, the show is self-confessedly no good. If the stuff is good, people watching it just naturally applaud. Even the advertisements might be less vulgar, as some really are. I would like to hear one fair and honest argument against Toll T.V. from the consumers' standpoint.

Emotional Reasons May Be Behind Child's Overweight

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

"We have a grandson just nine years old," writes Mrs. A. "He weighs around 108 pounds, which I am sure is much too much even for a boy whose bone structure is large. The doctor says that his glands are functioning all right, but there is obesity on one side of the family and the other is not fragile either. What do you think should be done?"

This question of overweight in youngsters is by no means unusual. In them, as in grown-ups, the carrying of excess fat is almost always simply a sign of eating too much. It is only rarely the result of some glandular disorder or other physical disorder. The family tendency may be more an imitation of eating habits than any glandular or other abnormality. The situation can be remedied as a rule by reducing the quantity of fat forming foods in the diet.

WHY DOES AN otherwise normal youngster eat too much? Apparently there is often an emotional reason.

In some youngsters it may be a symbol of independence or rebellion against authority. In some it may help the youngster to avoid physical competition with others, either in sports or socially; it may serve as a kind of excuse for avoiding undesired activity.

When obesity is severe the reasons may have to be discovered by the sympathetic physician or the psychiatrist so that the youngster will develop a real desire to lose excess pounds. Once a program of reducing is set up and agreed on it should be followed consistently.

SOMETHING SHOULD be said about the relative unimportance of physical exertion in a reducing regime. I am not arguing against exercise, but it is hard to reduce by exercise alone.

In order to walk off an ice cream soda containing about three hundred calories it would require a ten-mile jaunt in five hours or shoveling nearly 8,000 pounds of sand into a wheelbarrow! It is a lot easier to omit the ice cream soda than to try to exercise it off.

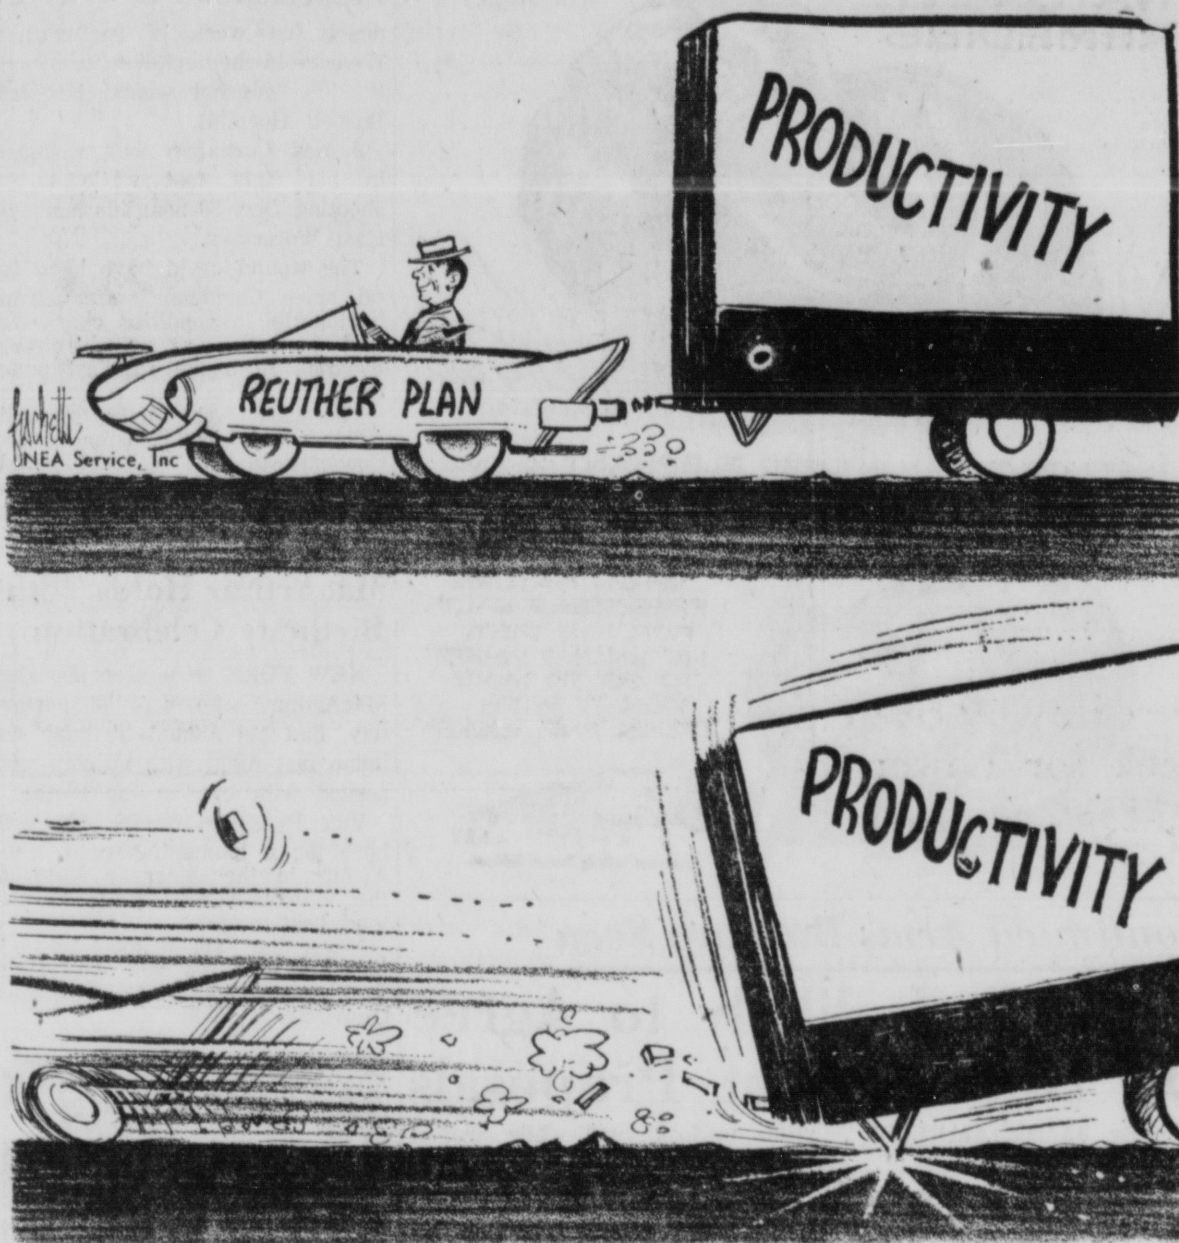

Obesity in youth (as well as in later life) depends on finding the reasons which cause excessive food intake and its treatment depends on developing both the desire and the knowledge to correct the situation.

develop that sort of attitude in our communities there will be no need to entice voters with premiums.

A St. Louis radio station recently decided to play all of the rock and roll records in its library one more time, then have disc jockeys smash them all. Not since the days of the RAF's heroism have so many owed so much to so few.

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The White House has backed itself into an uncomfortable protocol corner by announcing that it's going to include scientists in one of the formal dinners of the social season. No scientist as such has ever been given an official social ranking in this town for the purposes of being seated at the table or placed in a receiving line.

State Department protocol chief Wiley Buchanan is thinking in terms of putting two scientists somewhere between five-star military officers and U. S. ambassadors. One suggestion being considered is ranking a scientist according to what he has invented or discovered, which would put Dr. Edward Teller, who came up with the H-bomb somewhere near members of the Supreme Court, for example.

A spokesman for the National Science Foundation says he doesn't know any scientist who owns a monkey suit to wear to a formal dinner, so it doesn't make any difference what the protocol guys decide.

Another NSF expert says any scientist worth his salt shouldn't take time to go traipsing around to formal affairs with the Russians making so much headway in the labs these days.

AT A CHINESE DINNER party the other night the hostess asked Rep. D. S. (Judge) Saunders (D-Calif.) why he wasn't eating very much.

The judge explained that he had just returned from a tour of the Far East where he was continually invited to enormous lavishly prepared Chinese dinners.

"I know you're supposed to be hungry an hour after eating Chinese food," he said. "But I've had so much lately that I'm at least two months ahead."

CABINET SECRETARY Max Rabb was granted an audience with Emperor Hirohito of Japan on his recent swing through the Orient.

"How will I know when the interview is over?" Rabb anxiously asked U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II, as they entered the Imperial Palace.

"Don't worry," said MacArthur, "you'll know."

The emperor and Rabb hit it off pretty well, but at the end of 15 minutes Rabb noticed the court chamberlain gesturing, and immediately thereafter Rabb felt a sharp vibration in his chair. He jumped up to leave thinking he had the signal, but the emperor motioned him to sit down. They talked for another hour.

Leaving the palace, Rabb said to MacArthur, "That electric shock in my chair is a wonderful way to get a caller to leave. We should have that in the White House."

MacArthur laughed. "That was no shock," he said. "That was just a minor earthquake you felt."

ONCE A YEAR Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson reluctantly takes out his his silk hat and wears it to some snazzy affair. Other night it was to the first White House formal dinner of the season.

Johnson's staff panics when this yearly display is made, because as one of his advisers claims, "It would cost us 10,000 votes in Texas if a picture of him in that hat gets shown around back home."

It's Mrs. Johnson, "Lady Bird," insistence that he wear it at least once a year, regardless of potentially disastrous political consequences. She gave it to him 15 years ago and says, "Regardless of what everyone says, I love to see him in it."

FRIENDS WERE SURPRISED to see Rep. Ludwig Teller (D-N. Y.) leaving a theatre the other night red-faced and angry.

"What's the matter, Ludwig?" they asked. "You look as if you're ready to declare war."

"I've been looking forward to seeing this show all week because I was told the main character in it had the same name as mine," the congressman answered. "Well, that Ludwig Teller turned out to be a crook and was shot dead half way through the movie."

YOU'LL NEVER SEE British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia or any other top ranking guest in the middle of a room during a reception or cocktail party. They're always on the outer edges and slowly moving in a clockwise direction to the nearest exit.

That's the technique they use for getting out of a party as quickly and as gracefully as possible so that they have time to get to the next party. If they allow themselves to get caught in the middle of the room they find themselves trapped by crowds and long-winded story-tellers.

REPUBLICAN SENATE Leader William S. Knowland apparently has political ambitions for his offspring, too. "Speaker Sam Rayburn has outlived two generations of Knowlands," says the California senator, "and when one of my sons or grandsons comes to Washington I'm sure Speaker Sam will still be on the job."

Eisenhower, Adams Talk Called Basically Similar

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration, under heavy attack by the Democrats for the last several months, is faced with the fact that the Democrats make more political news that gets printed nowadays than do the Republicans.

Maybe this is because the Democrats are in control of all the important committees and investigations in Congress that are given wide publicity. Senator Lyndon Johnson's office, for example, is second in Washington only to the President's office in its mimeographed output of press releases that make the headlines. That's legitimate tactics for the Democrats—but, stangely enough, it is considered by some critics to be unduly partisan when members of the President's Cabinet or White House aids talk politics in public.

President's Speech Noted

An episode in point occurred last week. President Eisenhower went to Chicago to address a $100-a-plate dinner organized by the Republicans as part of a nationwide display of Republican speakers in various cities. Mr. Eisenhower said during the course of his speech:

"Our first objective—security and a just peace—is not a partisan or political matter. Americans must never and will never let the issue of security and peace become a pawn in anyone's political chess game."

This was immediately seized upon by the Democrats as meaning that nobody high up in the Republican administration should make any speeches at political gatherings or elsewhere on the subject of security or peace.

Several editorials were published criticizing Sherman Adams, Presidential assistant, because on the same night he, too, demanded that political partisanship should not be the motivation of legislators or anyone else in government in dealing with defense and security.

"There wasn't really any basic difference between the viewpoint of the President and Mr. Adams, yet it was widely regarded as a clash. Why, it might be asked, except to make political news and bolster the morale of his party workers, did the President himself go to a Republican dinner in Chicago and talk about America's need for resolute action on the peace and security front? He said later on the same speech:

"More than a year ago, by the test of the ballot box, America vigorously approved the Republican national record and direction of advance. The lesson is clear: When what we stand for is known and understood, the overwhelming majority of the American people support our objectives and programs."

Isn't that a political expression, and a proper one? What the President really meant by his remarks at the Chicago dinner was that his administration was not going to play politics with the peace and security questions and would not be motivated by political influences or demagoguery in reaching the decisions that America must make on these important problems.

Taft's Problem Cited

The dilemma—now to fight back at the opposition and yet be unpartisan in operating the government itself—is not unusual in political history. Once upon a time there was a Republican in the Presidency named William Howard Taft. He had been elected by a landslide in 1908 and was immensely popular. But two years later the Democrats swept the House of Representatives. A rift in the Republican party occurred, and by 1912 there were three parties battling in the political arena. One day President Taft sent for the late Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, and wanted to know why the Republican administration was getting so little publicity.

"We don't make the news," replied Mr. Stone. "We just report it."

This gave President Taft food for thought. He realized that his administration was under attack but had done very little to defend itself in the public prints. Mr. Taft himself had spent most of his life on the bench and wasn't used to political combat. It was generally conceded that he was not a politician. He was so un-partisan-minded that he named a Democrat to his Cabinet—which was unheard of in those days—and he later named an ex-Confederate soldier from the South to be Chief Justice of the United States. He got exactly eight electoral votes in his bid for re-election in 1912.

Mr. Taft didn't realize—any more than Mr. Eisenhower does sometimes—that politics is a battle of contending forces every day in the year and that the side which makes the news gets the space in the newspapers. Some of the Democratic party politicians today, including Harry Truman, like to talk of a "one party press" in America, by which they imply that the editorial pages are largely Republican in their sympathy. But Franklin Roosevelt used to say, "Give me the front news page, and you can have the rest of the paper."

Mr. Eisenhower finds himself confronted regularly at his press conferences with queries about politics, including security and peace. Reporters interrogate him with all the vigor and partisanship of a political debate in Britain's House of Commons, where the opposition customarily tries to cross-examine the government in power.

If it is really desired to keep politics out of the White House as it relates to the peace or security issues, the President would have to ban all questions from the press on those subjects, too, or at least refuse to answer them—and what a howl that would produce!

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — Millions of car owners this month are joining the ranks of those who slice time off their stops in service stations by using plastic embossed credit cards.

These cut even more time off the handling of credit in the accounting rooms of oil companies as they push millions of credit records through electronic tabulators.

Spreads to Hotels
The move away from the paper credit card with its long-hand tabulating has been brisk.

It is spreading to the hotels, with the American Hotel Assn. issuing 120,000 of its own credit cards and encouraging its members to install machines to do the accounting.

Some oil companies switched over last year. This month Esso, Texaco, Socony and Continental started using the new system. Only a handful of oil companies still stick to the paper card method, where the service station attendant copies all the data onto invoices.

Socony Mobil says the old process took an average of just under two minutes. The plastic card and mechanical imprinter cuts this to under one minute. The attendant places the customer's card in the imprinter, which contains the dealer's identification plate (a metal one). Both bits of information are imprinted on the credit invoice. The dealer has only to write in the sale amount; the customer only to sign his name.

Plan Mushrooming
Use of credit cards has been mushrooming since World War II. Texaco officials say in the last 10 years their credit business has grown by 20 per cent annually. The company has mailed plastic cards to 2½ million customers in all 48 states and set up imprints in 35,000 stations.

Socony Mobil has embossed more than 2½ million cards with credit customer's name and account number.

Esso Standard has chucked more than one million metal plates aside to start use of the plastic cards this month. It believes the convenience will make up for the cost of the change.

Cut Tiresome Work
Oilmen say that credit card accounts are approaching one third of total service station business. Losses have been held under 1½ per cent for the most part and some companies report them much lower.

Plastic card makers say customers like them because they are lighter and take up less space in wallets, as well as speeding up the time spent in filling stations.

Attendants like them because they cut down tiresome paper work.

Order Is Lifted On Boiling Water In Rensselaer

RENSSELAER (AP)—An order that city residents boil their drinking water was lifted today by the Rensselaer County health commissioner.

The commissioner, Dr. Andrew C. Fleck, said a new 500-pound chlorinating machine installed at the city filtration plant last week had made the water safe for human consumption.

Fleck imposed the order Jan. 11. It affected the city's 11,000 residents and those in the neighboring towns of East Greenbush and North Greenbush.

Rensselaer draws its water from the Hudson River. Troy and other cities upstream dump sewage in the river.

Fleck said the new chlorinating machine had increased the chlorine dosage to the required seven parts per million parts of water.

More Pay, 40-Hour Week for Lower Paid Is Proposed

ALBANY (AP)—A 15-million-dollar program to give lower-paid state employees more money and put the last 24,000 on a 40-hour week was advocated by Gov. Harriman today.

Harriman told the legislators in his budget message that the pay raise would cost about $11,800,000 and the cut in the work week, from 42 to 40 hours, another $4,200,000.

The governor maintained that the Legislature-spawned pay bill last year gave increases up to $1,500 to the higher paid employees while granting only $120 a year or less to the 52 per cent in lower grades.

Harriman said he proposed to correct this by adjustments that would boost salaries by $200 a year in civil service grades 1 through 4; by $150 in grades 5 through 8; and by $100 in grades 9 through 19.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON
WHAT'S COOKING?

Senator Kefauver has been fussing over the cost of steel. But some facts hit him in the face. So he announced a recess, saying, "The whole matter of costs and prices requires further investigation."

Kefauver is not an economist. He is a politician.

The United Steel Workers of America assert that out of company profits, higher wages can be absorbed without increasing steel prices. That's a honey!

Wages have gone up and up since the end of World War II, but not on the Steel Workers' logic. Facts and arithmetic prove it to be wrong.

Suppose the 1946 level of steel prices had been maintained through 1956. Suppose the industry had shipped what it actually did ship during those 10 years. Assume that wages and other costs did advance as much as they actually did. Where would the steel industry be today? Based on official figures, it would be 21 billion $'s in the red!

Where was Moses when the light went out?

This couldn't have happened because the steel industry would have gone bankrupt long before it could have created a deficit of 21 billions. The shipments would never have left the plants because the plants would never have been built, nor the men have been employed.

Neighbor, steel prices, like all other prices, must reflect increases in the cost of doing business, including wages, or broke you go.

The Borrowers

By FRANK TRIPP

If there were as many bringer-backers as there are borrowers in the world a polite form of petit larceny would disappear.

There are the bearable occasions and the perpetual pests; those who bring back promptly and are a pleasure to loan to; those you have to beg to bring back, and the ones who never bring back or replace anything.

The first borrower that I remember was a kid who wore out my first bicycle; ended up calling it "our" bicycle. When I wanted to ride I had to go to his house to get the bike and he'd be at our house waiting for it when I got back.

A psychiatrist would say that it was that kid and that bicycle that created a lifelong dislike of borrowers and borrowing—even from a bank.

THERE ARE people who have repeated use for an article that costs no more than a dime but they'll never buy one as long as they know they can borrow it from the neighbors.

There are cooks who will start a pie with no flour in the house, fellows who'll start a garden without a hoe or a spade, if they know where to borrow.

Getting stuck for a tray of ice cubes or a dash of Angostura is an emergency any good neighbor is glad to meet. Being perpetually asked for cubes and bit-ter is a signal that you're running a neighborhood storehouse and a warning to be "just out" of them yourself.

IT HAPPENS that nobody at this moment owes us five pounds of lard or three bottles of bit-ter, but I would like to locate a few books and tools.

Strangely the loaner seems to have a tricky memory that abets the borrower. By the time he has use for the missing article he has forgotten he loaned it, and when he remembers to whom, the borrower often has "forgotten" too.

Thus some things may be honestly missing, yet poor memories seem often to be quite a convenience to the borrower.

Then what do you do? You buy yourself another, or you won't have one to loan.

IF IT HADN'T been vetoed by Fanny, long ago I would have established a defense that occurred to me.

It was a bunch of printed slips to read something like this: "So we'll both remember, I have borrowed 'so-and-so' from you this date."

By now we would have cut our replacement costs considerably, would still have a lot of stray books, tools and miscellaneous items, and/or a nice little bundle of signatures of people who hadn't the gall to borrow thereafter.

SUCH A directory would have value in almost any neighborhood and if might cure people who don't realize how the borrowing habit has possessed them, and how most other people dislike forever loaning their things.

Anyway, what would be a delicate topic to a more timid writer is out of my system.

I'll be writing to you again next week—if I should have any friends left by then.

Outside Backbone

The common potto is unique among mammals in having part of its backbone outside its body.

This provides a row of sharp bony spines, which the potto uses to slash an enemy.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

The McNelis family were long connected with the trolley system during the Kingston Point Park days. Thomas McNelis has kindly written down as much data as he could remember with no doubt more to come, later.

Tom's father, Cornelius J. McNelis, is listed as electric line-man back in 1896 in the Kingston Directory. Tom writes me as follows: "My father helped to construct the Colonial City Traction Co. trolley line from 1892 to 1894 and later became its master mechanic. Later he was made master mechanic for the Kingston Consolidated R. R. Co. and worked there till his death in 1915."

Tom also explained the mystery of the trolley tunnel. He says it was completed around 1900. The honor of running the first trolley car through the tunnel went to Cornelius J. McNelis. Mr. McNelis mentioned every street that each trolley line ran and where they crossed, etc. As folks remember there was some franchise problem with the West Shore R. R. Co. and the Kingston City R. R. Co. After years of discussion the West Shore Railroad Company finally granted permission to the trolley company to dig a tunnel under their main tracks and that is how come our well known trolley tunnel. A construction company from Scranton, Pa., dug it from Dederick Street to Thomas Street and then the trolley company laid the new tracks from Thomas Street through the tunnel to the corner of Dederick Street and Broadway. I do not know why that tunnel could not have been paved later so that ambulances and some fire trucks could use it as well as other emergency equipment from the time the trolley stopped running.

Old timers, no doubt, remember that tunnel well for it had benches so one could sit and wait for a trolley. Often in summer, during a sudden rainstorm folks could go down there and take a nickel trolley to their nearest home stop. It was built up so it was even with the step of the trolley.

Mr. McNelis gives some of the important dates of the trolley system: The first horse car ran in August of 1866, drawn by four horses, proceeded by a brass band, fare was 10 cents. The last horse car ran July 31, 1893.

The first electric trolley car run by Kingston City R. R. Co. on same date. The motorman was Jefferson Short. The conductor was William Straley, the fare was 5 cents, the car was Number 3.

More data: "About 1892 the Colonial City Traction Co. was founded and started to build a new trolley system which started at Marius Street about where the George Washington School is now, and the system went to Abruyn Street way down in Ponckhockie. The powerhouse for this trolley company was built at the foot of Abruyn Street." The owners, Mr. McNelis said, for this venture which serviced the folks of Kingston, were several local men: Charles M. Preston, Judge Alton B. Parker (Parker ran for President of U. S.), Abram Hasbrouck, George Hutton, some New York bankers, and Thomas Fortune Ryan, trolley magnate of the east coast. They got the first trolley car of the Colonial Traction Co. running during the summer of 1894.

GOP Leader Named To U. S. Senate Post

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—John D. Hoblitzell Jr., chairman of the West Virginia State Republican Committee, was named by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood Saturday to the U. S. Senate, succeeding Matthew M. Neely, Democrat, who died last Saturday.

Appointment of Hoblitzell, 45-year-old Ravenswood banker and real estate executive, by the young Republican governor cut the Democratic edge in the Senate to 49-47.

Hoblitzell was campaign manager for Underwood, the first Republican to be elected governor of West Virginia since 1932.

Democrats Press

our growing unemployment."

The first order of business at tonight's session will be the reading of Harriman's annual budget message.

In other developments:

1. Republican legislative leaders announced that GOP program bills would be introduced to double the 500 special state scholarships for science and engineering study.
2. Two Brooklyn Democrats said they would file measures to double the entire scholarship program.

Seen As Certainty

The legislation on science-engineering scholarships is virtually certain to become law.

The proposal for adding 500 awards was advanced first by the State Board of Regents. The GOP leaders, Sen. Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, quickly endorsed it. Harriman approved, too.

The scholarships carry cash stipends ranging from $300 to $850 a year—depending upon a student's record—for up to five years.

Mahoney and Heck have estimated the new scholarships will cost $315,000 in the new fiscal year.

Doubling of the entire program, a boost from 6,000 to 12,000 annual awards, would raise the annual cost to 25½ million dollars after four years. Currently the program costs close to nine million.

The Regents have recommended this increase. But, apparently because of the high cost, Harriman has not endorsed it.

Sen. Samuel Greenberg and Assemblyman Bertram Podell will sponsor the legislation.

Mothers March Slated Tonight

The tolling of church bells at seven o'clock tonight will signal the start of the annual Mothers March for the March of Dimes in the township of Woodstock.

William S. Hand, chairman of the March of Dimes campaign in Woodstock, said a large group of mothers will go house-to-house to collect funds under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Richard Chambers and Mrs. Chester Gaede.

Mrs. Chambers, the Woodstock polio victim who is paralyzed from the neck down, recently wrote an inspiring and moving letter in behalf of the March of Dimes campaign. It created a tremendous impression upon the public.

Chairman Hand appealed to all citizens of the township to be as generous as possible in their contributions. He points out that so much good is accomplished by the gifts, large or small.

N. Y. Central Stock Is Off After Young's Death

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Central stock opened at $15.37 a share today after a delay of an hour and a half while specialists on the Stock Exchange matched a flood of buying and selling orders.

The opening price was off 12 cents from last Friday's close.

The original transaction was made on 12,000 shares. This represented a bunching of many small orders.

It was the market's first reaction to Saturday's news of the suicide of Robert R. Young, chairman of the New York Central Railroad and Allegheny Corp.

Issues Warning On Unethical Sales And Fund Raisers

Albert Kurtz, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, has warned all local community organizations and citizens to be on guard against unethical sales efforts and fund raisers.

"Although there are many honest fund raisers, there also are some in this business who use reputable community organizations as fronts for high pressure fund-raising schemes in which almost all the money goes to the promoter and his solicitors," Kurtz cautioned.

The Chamber's warning was prompted by an article in the January issue of the American Legion Magazine entitled, "You Can Beat the Phone Phenomenon" by Ralph Lee Smith. Although of special interest to Legionnaires, Mr. Smith's expose of the methods used by unscrupulous fund-raising promoters concerns business, patriotic, fraternal, civic, women's, church and all other community groups which have reason to raise funds for worthy purposes.

'Boiler Room' Sales

A special warning against the "boiler room" telephone solicitation which is used by promoters to high pressure local residents into contributing or buying. "A high percentage of the money collected," Kurtz stated, "goes right from the donor's checkbook into the promoter's and phoneman's pockets. Some of these promoters who operate 'out-of-their-hats' pay their phoneman as high as 35 per cent commission on funds collected and add on at least an additional 15 per cent for themselves. Since the unscrupulous promoter's primary interest is his own financial gain, his vehicle for fund raising, whether it be a show, a cookbook, a year book, sale of high margin merchandise, or what not, is frequently of very inferior quality."

Follow Simple Rules

"Unfortunately experiences with 'hit-and-run' fund raisers and sales efforts can easily be avoided," Kurtz added, "by following a few simple rules. Prospective donors or purchasers can protect themselves by following the general policy of not giving to unknown solicitors in response to a telephone appeal. Printed or written details should be sought before any commitment is made."

"Community groups can avoid the questionable promoter," Kurtz continued, "by making inquiry of the Chamber of Commerce before any contract is signed. The Chamber is pledged to help protect the community against unscrupulous operators, and will gladly assist local groups in securing information on fund-raising organizations and in reviewing their proposed appeals. Through its membership affiliation with the National Better Business Bureau, the Chamber is in a position to secure factual reports on fund-raising solicitations."

The car was struck by the Great Northern's Winnipeg Limited. Osseo is about 10 miles north of Minneapolis.

Budget Asks 43

aid this year and 12 million more annually thereafter. This would come on top of a mandatory $47,600,000 boost.

2. Adding 151 men to the state police force to crack down on gangsters and speeders, and expanding highway safety programs, at a total cost of $1,800,000.

3. Increasing state aid to community colleges by $10,700,000 and giving the State University $3,600,000 more to expand its teaching staff.

4. Raising the pay of state workers in the lower salary brackets and cutting the work week at state institutions from 42 to 40 hours, at a total cost of $14,800,000.

5. Granting New York City new state aid totaling 7 million this year and 13 million a year thereafter.

Sees Losses Under Plan

Harriman reported that, while spending would climb 142 million dollars in the new fiscal year, tax collections were expected to increase by only 67½ million.

The state, he said, would suffer a "serious" revenue loss if it had to continue the tax abatement plan of 1956 and 1957.

Under that plan, New Yorkers were allowed to deduct 15 per cent of the first $100 of tax due, figuring it at the full rate, and 10 per cent of the next $200—up to $35 apiece.

If, as Harriman proposes, the abatement is wiped out, most taxpayers will have to pay about 17 per cent more than in the past.

The governor pointed out that much of the 142-million spending boost was mandated by aid formulas or required because of inflation in the cost of materials the state uses.

Only about 25 million, he said, represented optional but "vital" new programs—such as the employ pay raises, the new police and the extra school aid.

The governor did not make a direct demand for a gas tax boost in his budget message but said: "GOP leaders already have decided, tentatively at least, against boosting the tax this year."

Harriman divided the budget into three main segments—$599,100,000 for state purposes, $934,700,000 for local assistance, and $254,000,000 for capital construction.

More than a third of the entire budget—$655,900,000—was set aside for education, most of it for school aid and the rest for construction and general state programs.

Treasury Receipts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cash position of the Treasury Jan. 22:

Deposits fiscal year July 1	$38,424,894,813.35
Withdrawals fiscal year	$46,356,684,163.05
Total debt	$274,878,843,440.17

1. A $3,400,000 appropriation to finance more mental health research.

2. Another $125,000 to continue studies into the causes of poverty.

3. Extra personnel for the State Tax Department, at a cost of $1,400,000, to step up the drive against tax evaders.

4. A $6,100,000 appropriation to advance the dormitory construction program at the state teachers colleges.

5. An additional $141,000 to increase the staff of the State Commission against Discrimination.

6. A $300,000 boost in travel-advertising funds for the State Commerce Department.

Education Will

State University. He said this would represent more teachers, new facilities and faculty promotions.

Community Colleges

Community colleges would get $10,700,000 more in state aid. Of this, all but $300,000 would be used for capital construction.

Harriman suggested that an additional $6,100,000 be appropriated for dormitory construction in State University schools. About $5,500,000 of this total would be used for actual construction costs of 2,174 accommodations for which planning money was appropriated 1 year.

The governor said a total of $15,800,000 had been made available for dormitory construction since 1955.

He also renewed his proposal that the state operate an educational television station in the Albany area.

Ohio Governor Suffers Mild Heart Attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill has suffered "a mild heart attack," his office reported today.

The Republican governor canceled all his engagements and took to his bed late last week.

Aides said the 41-year-old governor probably will be kept in bed for the next three weeks. He is at the executive mansion in suburban Bexley.

The governor is serving the second year of his first two-year term and has announced for election to a four-year term which would start next January. He formerly served three terms as attorney general and six two-year terms in the Ohio House, one of them as speaker.

The accident occurred about half a mile west of Dughill road, according to Deputy Sheriffs George Reitmeyer, John Kinstrey and Arthur Roland who were dispatched to the scene.

On Way Home

Mrs. Brown said that they were on their way home after visiting friends in Lomontville.

She didn't see anything but all of a sudden heard an "awful crash."

"There was the tree across the front of the car," she told The Freeman. She said the windshield was smashed on the left side where her husband was sitting.

Escaped Death

"No one can understand why my husband wasn't killed," she said. Mrs. Brown was so shaken up that she was unable to go to work today.

Car Total Wreck

She said they have insurance on the car which she doesn't think can be repaired. The report in the sheriff's office described the vehicle as a "total wreck."

She said that after the first tree came crashing down they heard Saeffhoff yell, "Look out. Don't get out. There's another one coming." At that moment the second tree came crashing down on the back of the car.

Sitting Indian

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—State Policeman George Smith said he got "shook up just a bit" recently when he checked what he thought was an Indian sitting in the back seat of a car parked near here late one night. It was an Indian all right, but it was a six-foot high carved figure of a Teguque Indian which usually stood guard at a guest lodge north of the city. Some prankster had apparently moved the statue and later abandoned the car with it in the back seat.

Paltz Professor Will Visit Southwest School

Dr. Robert L. Swain, professor of mathematics at the State University Teachers College, New Paltz, has been granted a leave of absence for the second semester to be a visiting professor of mathematics at Oklahoma State University, it was announced this week.

Dr. Swain will develop and teach a course entitled "Modern Mathematics for High School Science Teachers," to be taught to a specially selected group of teachers. These teachers have been given grants to enroll in a full-time institute for high school mathematics and science teachers at Oklahoma State under the auspices of the National Science Foundation.

The material which Dr. Swain develops in his institute course will be distributed for use in other teaching situations throughout the country.

A member of the New Paltz faculty since 1950, Dr. Swain has been active in numerous phases of mathematics education. He is the author of a textbook "Understanding Arithmetic" which is currently being used in 17 colleges and universities throughout the country, and he recently participated in a television show "Mathematics with Clifton Fadiman," over the NBC Educational Television Network.

Mrs. Swain and their children will accompany Dr. Swain to Oklahoma.

Aeronautics Group Says Costs Cut Research Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics reported today that rising costs and governmental economy have cuts its research efforts as compared with those of the Russians.

"Thus, America's relative position in aeronautical science has been deteriorating," said James H. Doolittle, retired air corps general and NACA chairman, in a letter accompanying the agency's 43rd annual report to Congress and the White House.

The letter, made public today, was dated last October, about the time the Russians were launching their first earth satellite. "Our national security," said Doolittle, "requires that we rather than Russia be first to find answers to the formidable questions that now limit the performance of aircraft and missiles. We can succeed in this objective only if we are prepared to make the necessary investments of money in research facilities and scientific talent."

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Boy Is No 'Sissy' Because He Has Feelings of Gentleness

Peter's aunt is a friend of ours. She spent a recent holiday at his home. Among the other guests was the 2-month-old daughter of some neighbors.

After being fed, the baby was placed in her pink basket and put to sleep in the guest room. Later, Peter's aunt went to the room for her sweater.

Carefully, very quietly she opened its door. In the darkened room 7-year-old Peter was sitting on the bed beside the pink basket absorbed in rapt contemplation of the baby.

As she tiptoed toward him, he said in a hushed whisper, "Hurry up! Come and look at her. Just look at her fingernails. Did you ever see such little, tiny fingernails?"

Then Peter's aunt told us how the look of marveling tenderness on his face was suddenly replaced by one of panic. Flushing, he scrambled off the bed, anybody what I just said, will you? Don't tell them I was in here watching the baby. They'd laugh. They'd say I was a sissy or something."

His panic was justified. We do regard tenderness in the male sex as effeminate.

It is not effeminate. It is just love without any demand in it. It is a special sense of union with another person that gives us a feeling of his completeness as well as our own. In tenderness there is nothing of the effeminate man's dividedness, uncertainty and feeling of isolation.

Dr. Ian D. Suttie is a noted British psychiatrist. The Julian Press has published an American edition of his book, "The Origins of Love and Hate."

In it he writes, "The taboo on tenderness artificially differentiates men from women, making them bad comrades and throwing the women back upon dependence on their children."

In the present state of this world, we have no right to make any little boy ashamed of tenderness.

We who do envy his open-heartedness. We ridicule it because we have been made afraid of our own. As Dr. Suttie says, "The indulgences we have been forced to renounce we will certainly not permit others."

We ridiculing parents, not Peter, are the real sissies. (All rights reserved, NEA Service, Inc.)

USE OF FIRST NAMES

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening my husband introduced a man he has known for many years to me, but whom I had met. He calls this man by first name but as he was a stranger to me, I called him Mr. Smith, which I thought perfectly correct. My husband criticized me later for being so formal and thinks that I should have called him Jim. Does the fact that my husband calls him by first name give me the right to do so?

Answer: If he was a very intimate friend of your husband about whom you heard a good deal, it would have been friendly and proper to call him by first name. Had he not been a particularly close friend and you knew nothing at all about him, I think you were quite right to call him Mr. Smith unless he asked you to call him Jim.

Invitation To Silver Anniversary
Dear Mrs. Post: How, on a plain mailing post card, could we invite our many friends to come to Mass and then in the afternoon to an "at home" at our house, the occasion being our silver wedding anniversary? Will you please suggest the wording — as little to write as possible.

Furnishing Their Future House
Dear Mrs. Post: I am planning to be married shortly and I would like to know just what household items the girl and her family are supposed to provide and also what the bridegroom-to-be is supposed to furnish for their future house?

Answer: There is today no rule governing this and each contributes what he (or she) is best able to.

Is popular or classical music played for the wedding reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-2, "Formal Wedding Procedure," answers this question. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Wedding of Former Area Resident Held; Ceremony Held in Detroit, Michigan Saturday

MRS. JAMES PATRICK HEALEY

(Clinedinst photo)

In a ceremony Saturday, Jan. 25 in St. Catherine's Chapel, Detroit, Mich., Maureen Therese Feely, daughter of Mrs. Frank Feely, Detroit, Mich., became the bride of James Patrick Healey, son of Mrs. Robert Clark of Birmingham, Mich., and the late Urban J. Healey. The bridegroom is a former Kingston resident.

The Rev. John F. Quinn performed the ceremony and the Rev. Remi J. Belleperche was celebrant of the Nuptial Mass.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Fred James Feely. She wore a porcelain blue peau de soie with matching velvet hat and slippers and carried a spray of white amazon lilies on her prayer book.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Ann Feely who wore emerald green satin with matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of shattered white carnations and ivy. Peter Schmidt of New York City was best man for Mr. Healey.

Mother of the bride wore a navy peau de soie taffeta and a single pink camellia. Mrs. Robert Clark, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue peau de soie and a corsage of cypripedium orchids.

Breakfast for the family was hosted by Miss Mildred Feely in her Palmer Woods, Mich., home. For traveling to Nassau, Mrs. Healey wore blue wool jersey with navy accessories.

Sees State GOP Making 1954 Mistakes Again

WATERTOWN (AP)—State Sen. Henry A. Wise, taking another crack at the state's Republican leadership, says there are signs his party this year will make "the same mistakes as in 1954."

The Watertown legislator renewed his criticism in an open letter to GOP State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse Saturday.

"We all want to win and throw the 'liberals' out of the state capitol," Wise said in his letter. "This should not be too hard if you and some of your associates will stop trying to sweep the dust under the rug."

'Campaign Misconducted'

"Signs today point to a (Republican) state campaign misconducted by the same people making the same mistakes as in 1954," Wise wrote.

He was referring to the narrow

Improved Patient Care Is Theme of Nursing Programs

"Improving the Quality of Patient Care" will be the theme of Hudson Valley League for Nursing programs for 1958.

First meeting of a series will be held 2 p. m. Feb. 7 at Veterans Administration Hospital, Albany, and will be on the topic, "The Head Nurse's Contribution to Improving the Quality of Patient Care."

Other meetings are scheduled for March 28 and 29 at St. Peter's Hospital, Albany and May 13 and 14 at Syracuse.

Victory won in 1954 by Democratic Gov. Harriman.

A week ago Wise took the Senate floor to criticize the party leadership for "among other things, scheduling a major party affair in New York City that night when state legislators had to meet in Albany."

fine tradition that airmen from Griffiths did here two years ago," they said.

The co-chairmen also noted that Harrison Muller, of Woodstock, internationally famous dancer, is expected to present a wonderful dance and comedy routine "for his neighbors in this area."

Muller has appeared on many NBC spectaculars, the Milton Berle and Ed Sullivan television shows and has handled choreography for CBS.

He recently returned from a southwest tour where he entertained with Dorothy Collins, formerly featured on the Hit Parade. Muller also is associated with "Frontiers of Faith," a nationally televised religious series.

Also featured in tonight's show will be Barbara Moncre, folk singer and Odette Bouchard, dancer, who completed an engagement at the Plaza Hotel in New York City last November.

Pete Mathews, banjoist, and Jimmy Fay, dancer, will provide the Irish flavor to the show, while Jimmy Perry, local ventriloquist, will add to the comedy routines.

Other dancers will include Jean Oakley and Jerry Zadan, of the Arthur Murray Studios, who have appeared recently on the famous dancing instructor's television program.

The twirling corps of the Kingston High School Band will open the local segment of the show.

Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra and another from Stewart Air Base will provide music for the show.

Plans to Realign Defense Setup Ready in 60 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration plans for reorganizing the Defense Department, given a shove by President Eisenhower, may be ready in about 60 days.

Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles gave that estimate as the House Armed Services Committee recalled Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin today in its continuing probe of defense activities. Gavin, who has criticized the present system, is retiring March 31 as chief of Army research and development.

Form Undecided

Quarles told a television audience yesterday that the administration has not yet decided what form its proposals for reorganization may take, and added: "It would be premature to say that we have plans, but I would think 60 days was about the amount of time that would be required to formulate plans."

Eisenhower took a personal hand in the effort Saturday, conferring for more than two hours at the Pentagon with Secretary of Defense McElroy, Quarles and a number of other military and civilian leaders.

Tillson

TILLSON — The Spotlighters will meet Tuesday 8 p. m. at the school to read a new play, "Out of the Frying Pan," which is expected to be ready for production early in the spring.

Due to inclement weather, the monthly card party sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company has been postponed until Saturday Feb. 1, 8 p. m. at the firehall. The auxiliary holds card parties the last Saturday of the month, but due to the storm last Saturday, the party was not held. Refreshments will be served and prizes awarded.

New Tension Grips Venezuela Junta

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—New tension gripped strife-torn Venezuela today amid reports that supporters of ousted dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez might be readying a counter coup.

Apprehension increased as the ruling junta went into emergency session last night and armored cars appeared on the capital streets. All persons were warned to stay indoors during the dusk to dawn curfew.

Armed Forces Control

The junta proclaimed its armed forces were in full control. But peace and order remained in peril until all diehard supporters of Perez Jimenez were rounded up throughout the country.

Authorities breathed more easily, however, over word from another ousted strongman — exiled Juan D. Peron of Argentina — that he would leave "Venezuela 'as soon as possible.'"

Peron to Leave

Peron, who took refuge in the Dominican Embassy after last week's uprising, said he expected to leave tomorrow, probably for the Dominican Republic. There, Dictator Rafael Trujillo has already provided a haven for Perez Jimenez.

The junta had said it would respect the principle of asylum if Peron wanted to stay in this country, but it made plain it would prefer that he leave.

Washington Ave. Man Held for Assault on Wife

A 33-year-old Kingston man is in the Ulster County jail on a charge of assault second degree involving an alleged attack on his wife early Saturday morning.

George L. Manos of 354 Washington Avenue was arrested by Kingston state police after his wife was taken to Kingston Hospital with injuries described as "minor knife wounds."

Troopers James Kaljian and P. Zuckerman, who arrested Manos at 4:45 a. m. Saturday, reported that he also allegedly struck his wife with a "tire iron." This is described as a piece of iron used in removing tires from their rims.

Mrs. Manos was treated at the hospital and released.

Manos was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Alton Boyce of the town of Hurley. No date has been set for a hearing.

Several Civil Service Examinations Schedule

Examinations are now open for the following positions, the United States Civil Service Commission announces: Field representative (telephone operations and loans), paying entrance salaries of $5,440 to $6,390 a year, for duty with the Rural Electrification Administration of the Department of Agriculture located throughout the United States; and for engineer (various branches), chemist, electronic scientist, mathematician, metallurgist and physicist, paying $4,480 to $12,690 a year, located at the Redstone Arsenal and the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, Huntsville, Alabama.

To qualify for the field representative positions, applicants must have had appropriate experience or a combination of education and experience. For engineer and scientist positions, applicants must have had appropriate education and experience (for some engineer positions, experience alone may be qualifying but the adequacy of such experience will be tested by a written test). Education alone may be qualifying for the lower grade positions.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from Leo W. Darvak, examiner in charge, located at Central Post Office, or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

For field representative positions, applications should be filed with the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. ## 151 Million Is Considered for Restoring Assets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today was reported considering a 151-million-dollar U. S. Treasury outlay to help give back at least part of the German and Japanese assets seized in World War II.

Such a proposal would certainly intensify a controversy which has alternately flared and simmered almost since the end of that war. The formula said to be under discussion in the administration would call for return of two-thirds of an estimated half-billion dollars in seized assets.

Eisenhower announced July 31 he would propose to Congress, "as a matter of priority" this year, a formula for settling the issue. His goal, he said, was to pay all war damage claims by Americans against former enemies, and to "permit... an equitable monetary return to former owners of vested assets."

This was a policy reversal, requiring a change in law to be effective. Under the 1948 War Claims Act, Congress ruled none of the properties could be returned. By international treaty, West Germany had agreed to compensate its nationals for loss of property through wartime seizure abroad.

Eisenhower followed up his announcement with a proposal to return up to $10,000 in assets to individuals, but not to corporations. The bill died in a Senate judiciary subcommittee after opposition from virtually all sides.

The biggest nugget in the half-billion-dollar gold mine is General Aniline & Film Corp. It is valued at 100 million dollars. Interhandel, a Swiss company, claims 90 per cent of its stock. But the allied governments have blocked this claim in the courts, contending they can prove Interhandel is a blind for the German cartel, I. G. Farben.

NOT FOR SALE—Handmade and prized beyond price is this tiny race car, the work of Phillip Miller, left, and William Geyer, of Upper Arlington, Ohio, a suburb of Columbus. It is a gleaming two-thirds size copy of the most dazzling of early European grand prix racing cars—the Type 35 Bugatti. From horseshoe-shaped grill to the tip of its boat-tail, it accurately duplicates an automobile produced by Ettore Bugatti, an Italian who produced about 9,500 of the world's finest cars in France. Miller, a Bugatti fan, and Geyer, a car-loving machinist, spent two years of evenings, Saturday and Sunday on the project. Miller has shown the car at sports car races, where it has never failed to draw a crowd of admirers. But the Miller-Geyer Bugatti is not for sale—on any terms.

Health for All

VACCINATION AGAINST TB

Since the germ that causes tuberculosis was discovered 75 years ago, science has searched for an effective vaccine to protect all of us from the disease. But the answer is still in the future.

One vaccine developed back in the twenties, BCG—Bacillus of Calmette and Guérin—is still used, but has limited effectiveness. Research continues for a better vaccine, but there is nothing new in sight.

As a layman, you aren't too interested in the scientific reasons why it is so difficult to develop an ideal vaccine against TB. You want to know whether your children should have the protection of even an imperfect vaccine.

Mass vaccination of all children in this country is not indicated, according to a recent report of the U. S. Public Health Service. In some countries where TB is so prevalent that almost every child will be heavily exposed, mass BCG vaccination has proved valuable. However, in this country most of the new cases of TB develop among people infected some time ago.

Vaccination is, of course, useless if a person is already infected. Doctors generally recommend BCG vaccination only for special groups—such as those working in hospitals and laboratories or families with a TB patient in the home—people most likely to be exposed.

If public health measures against TB in your community are adequate, the danger that children will be exposed is not great. A regular tuberculin test will provide a check on whether there is such exposure, and then preventive measures can be taken.

Your doctor will tell you if there is any special reason why your children should be vaccinated against TB.

Most Cases Heard Were on Color

NEW YORK—The State Commission Against Discrimination reports that about 70 per cent of the complaints brought before it in the last 12 years charged bias because of color.

From July 1945, when SCAD was formed, to Sept. 30, 1957, complaints based on color totaled 3,244 of the 4,582 charges filed, Chairman Charles Abrams said yesterday.

Another 13.7 per cent of the complaints charged bias because of religion and 10.3 per cent because of national origin. The remainder included charges of unlawful inclusions by employers and dismissals because the employee filed a complaint with SCAD.

The complaints dealt primarily with discrimination in employment, public accommodations and publicly assisted housing.

Negroes represented all but 24 of the color complaints. Complaints also were received from 9 American Indians, one Moor and 14 whites.

Abrams said the latter included a man who said he was refused a job as a railroad dining car attendant because he was white and a man who reported he was discharged as a porter because his employer preferred Negroes in the job.

Men Reluctant

CINCINNATI, Ohio—The teaching of young children is almost exclusively a woman's job because men think kindergarten and grammar school teaching is sissified, says a prominent educator. Dr. James L. Hymes of the University of Maryland college of education told a recent meeting of nursery school teachers that many men would like to teach young children "but the feeling it's a sissy job, a waste of a man's brain keeps them from it."

Cary Grant Voted Best Dressed Man Among Film Stars

HOLLYWOOD—Cary Grant, who admits he still wears a topcoat that he bought in 1935, today headed a list of Hollywood's best dressed men as voted by other male stars.

Sy Devore, movie stylist, polled some 300 actors after a reporter had long pressed him to name film's fanciest 10. He admitted he passed the buck for fear of slighting some good cash customers such as Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Jeff Chandler and others who didn't make the list.

Lewis Is Second—Besides Grant, the list is, in this order, Jerry Lewis, Fred Astaire, Dean Martin, Bill Holden, Gary Cooper, Tony Curtis, Nat King Cole, David Niven and Clark Gable.

It's an honest coat because Grant, Astaire, Cooper, Niven and Gable are not Devore clients. The designer called Grant "a tailor's delight in casual clothes." Grant buys such expensive clothes that they never go out of style. That's why his 1935 topcoat is still as fashionable as its owner.

Lewis owns the biggest wardrobe by far. His closets currently have more than 300 suits, including 17 new tuxedos at $285 apiece. "Jerry sometimes gives a suit to a struggling actor after wearing it once or twice," Devore said. "I guess he just doesn't like cleaning bills."

Devore described Holden as the least "actorish" in his dress. "He dresses more like a Wall Street executive than a movie star," the designer added.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK—So rarely does nighttime television seek to do more than entertain that a program such as "M. D. International," seen on "March of Medicine" (NBC-TV), is memorable.

In examining the activities of American physicians in eight countries, this excellent program filmed by producer David Lowe and associates offered a study in selflessness—a human quality seldom developed at much length on the home screen.

The filmed documentary, especially attractive if seen in color, was consistently absorbing. In visiting American medical projects in Korea, Hong Kong, Sarawak, Burma, Nepal, Lebanon, Ethiopia and India, "M. D. International" didn't have time to linger long in any place.

Thus it was more diffuse than "Monganga," that memorable account of a single medical missionary in the Belgian Congo, which "March of Medicine" presented last year. But its purpose was to give viewers some idea of the humane activities of numerous Americans in remote parts of the world. It achieved that purpose with notable success.

Personally, I wished that the program might have been expanded 30 minutes.

There was not time to give the viewers much conception of the trying physical conditions under which physicians, both missionaries and others, work in the remote places of the world. Those who never have traveled unbeat paths have little concept of the physical discomforts involved.

Pusan, Korea, for example, is one of the hell-holes of creation. The fine filming of the work of the Maryknoll Sisters there would have been even more effective if viewers could have seen more of the filth and poverty of the teeming slums.

"M. D. International" gave us a good notion of "how" American physicians work in distant places, but it did not have time to probe the reasons as to "why."

Dr. Victor Rambo, who often performs 100 cataract operations daily in "eye camps" in South India, said tersely, "someone has to do it." Implicit, of course, was his belief that "therefore I shall." But why does he do it? The conclusion of most of the world is "let George do it."

I'd like to know why, too, Dr. Friedrichs Carl of Reading, Pa., chooses to run a tiny hospital on a remote Nepal mountainside rather than to pursue a profitable practice in an American city.

Because I happen to have known a few American medical missionaries who purposely chose obscure and financially unprofitable lives, I believe I know why many prefer Memphis to Memphis or India to Indiana. Basically each has the undramatic quality of selflessness, usually prompted by religious faith. Basically, too, most confess to having a streak of venturesomeness.

BRIDGE Duplicate Play Has Difference

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand taken from the recent National Championships shows the difference between rubber bridge and duplicate play.

All South players chose to open one no-trump rather than one spade and all North players raised to three.

West would open his fourth best heart and South would gather in the trick with the ten. At this point correct rubber bridge tactics would be to go right after the five card spade suit and those declarers who did that would wind up making four no-trump. Those who wanted better things simply led a diamond at trick two and finessed dummy's ten.

The way the cards lay this forced East's ace but it didn't really matter too much if it lost to the jack. The point is that East invariably led back his fourth best spade. South allowed this to ride around to dummy's nine and West would be in with the jack. Now South would make four spade tricks instead of three and would wind up with five no-trump instead of four.

Of course if East had decided to lead something other than a spade South would probably have made four odd only and it also should be noted that South could have played the spades himself and made four spade tricks but that would practically require clairvoyance while once East was persuaded to break the spade suit all South needed was normal play.

To Launch Effort Organizing Dairy Farmers in U. S.

SCRANTON, Pa.—A nationwide drive to organize dairy farmers will be launched this week by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, a dairy official says.

Charles Cartwright, executive director of the Tri-State Master Dairy Farmers Guild, said Saturday in nearby Hawley that a charter would be presented to the guild at ceremonies this week in Philadelphia. The guild will be designated as the dairy producers local union of the Teamsters, Cartwright said.

The teamsters union recently was banished from the AFL-CIO. According to Cartwright, the guild now has between 8,000 and 9,000 dues-paying members. They will start paying Teamster dues this week, he said.

Kingston MUST Stop Lawrence to Beat Liberty Tomorrow

Victory Is Imperative To Stay in DUSO Race

The stage has been set for the DUSO "game of the year" tomorrow night in the Kate Walton field house when Kingston High's Maroons vie against unbeaten Liberty.

Coach Jack Gilligan's five know that this is the game they need if they have allusions of being considered as a threat for the DUSO bunting.

Unbeaten in seven league starts, the Redskins are a lead pipe cinch to go the rest of the way if it gets by that one tomorrow night. If not undefeated they will have accumulated enough victories to back into the race title.

If it manages to get by the Maroons, then the only challenging hope rests with Port Jervis. The Red Raiders won a big one in Newburgh Friday night to boost its victories to six. They have lost one.

Monties vs. Port

Port could run into a hornets nest at Monticello, but it isn't likely that the Monties have enough to spring an upset. Pat Farace's club, probably the tallest in the circuit, would have to be well off its games not to emerge victorious here.

The Monties had a good effort against Kingston, but at no time threatened the substantial lead rolled up against them.

Coach Gilligan has not indicated what kind of a defense he will throw against Johnny Lawrence, the league's top scorer. The dynamic 5-5 sharpshooter could well have many uneasy moments during the 32-minute fray.

The Maroon mentor has scouted the team thoroughly and he knows every Lawrence move like a book. It won't be surprising if he comes up with some maneuver to cut down his scoring output.

25-Point Average

Lawrence has caged a 25-point per game average and has spearheaded every Redskin victory. Kingston's success could well depend on how efficiently they check Coach Bob Van Slyke's ace.

Along with Lawrence, the Maroons will have Josh Gerow to contend with. He has proven a formidable scorer in the last few games. Coach Gilligan undoubtedly is not going to concentrate his defense wholly around stopping Lawrence. He knows Gerow's capabilities and will more than likely come up with a two-fold defensive maneuver in an effort to limit the invaders' stalwarts to as few baskets as possible.

On the other hand, George Uhl's scoring ability is on par with the Liberty ace. He can match his output on any given night, but if Lawrence comes up with a big scoring performance nothing would be accomplished since the points would eliminate each other.

Kingston's job is to stop Lawrence. If the squad can do this, the odds are good they will come out on the long end of the score.

Promise Land 5 Beats Woodstock

Promise Land cagers dominated the second half to defeat Woodstock Varsity, 70 to 58, at the Woodstock school gym.

Led by Ray Lucas, who potted 19 points, the Kingston cagers ground out a 32-28 lead at the half, then outscored the home tossers, 38-30, after the recess.

Jim Mackey was runnerup with 14 points for Promise Land. Coach Bill Watrous bucketed 17 and Joe Hilton hit 13 for Woodstock.

Warriors Keep Hex On St. Loo

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia Warriors, last place team in the eastern division of the National Basketball Assn., show no respect for the position of the unsteady St. Louis Hawks, leaders in the West.

The Warriors, trailing in a skin-tight race for the East's third and final playoff position, dumped the Hawks 125-112 last night in St. Louis. It was Philadelphia's fifth straight victory over the western leaders.

The Hawks also lost to Detroit 105-98 Saturday night and their lead was sliced to 6½ games over second-place Cincinnati.

Cincinnati gained ground yesterday, catching Detroit in the final minutes to win 107-103 at home. In other Sunday action, Boston, eastern leaders, evened a weekend home-and-home series, defeating second-place Syracuse 118-95; and New York stepped .001 percentage points ahead of the Warriors by defeating Minneapolis 109-106 despite Dick Garmaker's scoring performance which tied three NBA records.

Saturday, Syracuse whipped the Celtics 112-110 in Syracuse and New York set a scoring record for the 6th Regiment Armory court in New York, beating the Lakers 128-116.

Garmaker's 23 points and 10 field goals in the third quarter, 33 in the second half tied NBA records set, respectively by Bob Pettit, George Mikan and Joe Fulks. He completed the game with 39 points.

Massachusetts Aces Dominate State Races

FORT JOHNSON (AP)—Massachusetts speed skaters dominated the New York State championship over the weekend.
The event finished yesterday in a steady drizzle that turned the ice to slush.
Dick Ring of Brighton, Mass., captured the men's title with 20 points.
Massachusetts skaters won two other divisions.
Rhoda Biggie of Saratoga Springs was victorious in all three events for 15 points in the intermediate girls' class.

HITS THE MARK: Artie Gribbins, Ontario Central's sensational scorer dunks a two-point-er in his team's 79 to 58 victory over Marlboro Friday night at Boiceville. Ready to rebound is Herbie Krien (4). Player in dark jersey is Fran Fino (13). Gribbins hit 31 points in the win.

For Wednesday's Banquet

Jackie Farrell and O'Rourke Added to Old Timers Program

Jackie Farrell, the big little man of the New York Yankees public relations staff, and Frank O'Rourke, chief eastern scout for the Chicago Cubs have been added to the speaking roster for Wednesday's Old Timers Baseball Association dinner at The Barn.

The addition of Farrell and O'Rourke brings to four the number of speakers.
William (Bill) Grieve, former American League baseball manager, and Tony Ravish, chief eastern scout for the New York Giants, were previously announced as speakers.

Producers TV Shows
Farrell is one of the best known men in the Yankee organization and produces the before and after TV shows from the stadium. He is regarded as one of the most able banquet speakers in the business and scored a solid hit in his appearance before the City Baseball League dinner here last May.

The dinner will honor two former baseball stars — Paul Joyce and Frank (Boots) Leskie — and will also be a testimonial to Nick Kaslich, veteran billiard establishment operator who recently sold his business.

William R. Scully, ticket chairman, reported today that more than 125 reservations have been made and a crowd of nearly 150 is expected. Reservations can still be made with any member of the Old Timers organization.

The Blacktops threw the American division of the YMCA Winter League into a four-way deadlock for second place Saturday with a 65 to 48 win over Caruso's Insurance. Tony's Pizza and Promise Land are the other teams which figure in the tie. Wimpy's lead the circuit with a 6-1 record, while Harry's Angels are unbeaten in seven games in the National League.

Boulevard Gulf nipped the Godwin's in a thriller 52-50 to record its fifth win and go into a second-place tie with Minute Car Wash. The Rangers were dropped from the league when they failed to muster a team for the second straight scheduled game. Wimpy's 2 got the victory.

The Blacktops put the game on ice in the third quarter when they hit 16 straight points before the insurance squad hit pay dirt. Grimaldi had 19 for the winners. Holstein paced the opposition with 18.

Chevrolets Blast Pine Plains, 91-65, as Scheffel Hits 33

Kingston Five Scores Eighth League Victory

The Hudson Valley Basketball League crowd at the municipal auditorium has been waiting for Ronnie Scheffel to bust out one of these nights.

He rewarded their waiting with interest last night, rocketing 33 points and doing a terrific job on Ted Dwyer as Byrne Chevrolets crushed the Pine Plains Bombardiers, 91-65, for their eighth straight victory.

Scheffel, the legendary Kingston High School performer and later a stickout at North Carolina State, meshed 13 fields and converted seven of 12 free throw tries to eclipse Buddy Smith's former game mark of 30 points.

Smith continued his brilliant play last night and he and Scheffel analyzed what might have been a dismal night for the fans.

Manager George Steutzel's crew again showed up with only five players. Ted Dwyer managed to fashion 26 points and Charlie Pellegrino potted 19, thanks to leniency of the rules which permitted Pellegrino to stay in the game after six personal fouls. He finished with eight, picking up his sixth early in the fourth quarter.

Broadhead Hits 13

Skip Broadhead contributed 13 points, as the torrid Chevrolets broke Pine Plains' back with a 47-point second half after battling to a 44-39 margin at half-time.

Coach Red Murray's cagers were the essence of consistency, with quarter clockings of 20-24-23-24. Such scoring is unique in the HVL.

Scheffel scored 16 points in the first and 17 in the second. Smith jammed 16 of his 22 markers in the second period when Dwyer and company were crowding the locals.

The schedule keeps the Chevrolets idle until Feb. 10 when Fishkill invades the auditorium. A return game is carded Feb. 13 at Wappingers Falls.

Meanwhile, Coach Murray said the Chevies might play in Hartford, Conn. Sunday and then take on the Siena All Stars in a March of Dimes benefit here in order to keep the squad in trim.

Mountaineers, St. John's Head For Showdown

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

That swashbuckling band of Mountaineers from West Virginia blows into Durham, N. C., tonight to hang Duke's scalp alongside their other 14 victims of the basketball season.

This should be a relatively easy one for West Virginia, the top dog among the nation's court elite, for Duke has a so-so 6-5 record to date.

The Mountaineers rest up after tonight and will have more than a week to solidify their forces for their meeting with St. John's of Brooklyn the other undefeated major club, in Madison Square Garden, Feb. 6.

St. John's, with a 9-0 record, still has three games on tap before meeting West Virginia. The big hurdle for the Brooklyn Redmen comes Saturday against Temple, one of the strongest teams on the eastern seaboard.

Mid-year exams still are keeping some of the clubs inactive.

Wildcats Poised

Meanwhile, Adolph Rupp's Kentucky Wildcats, quietly in the background since the start of the season, have an opportunity to make hay.

They are sailing along in the No. 9 post at the moment. They play Georgia Tech tonight, Georgia Wednesday and Florida Friday, all Southeastern Conference games. Victories in all three would just about lock up the race for Kentucky.

Cincinnati, which is rolling along in fourth place in the current ratings, is in action twice this week, against Miami of Ohio Wednesday and Duquesne Saturday. Neither is a Missouri Valley game, so the Bearcats can concentrate on trying to build up Oscar Robertson's national scoring lead without fear of Bradley moving into the top spot in the league.

Wildcats, Lions Take Victories In Cadet League

The Wildcats topped the powerful Panther quintet, 40 to 33 in the Kingston YMCA Cadet League Saturday. The Lions downed the Tigers 21 to 18 to make their record 5-1.

Bob Tucker led the Wildcats with 22 points. Jack Lewis had 10 for the losers. Harry Felton and Garry Van Ethen led the Lions. The scoring:

WILDCATS (40) Baltz 4, Anderson 6, Devoe 4, Tucker 22, Carey 4.

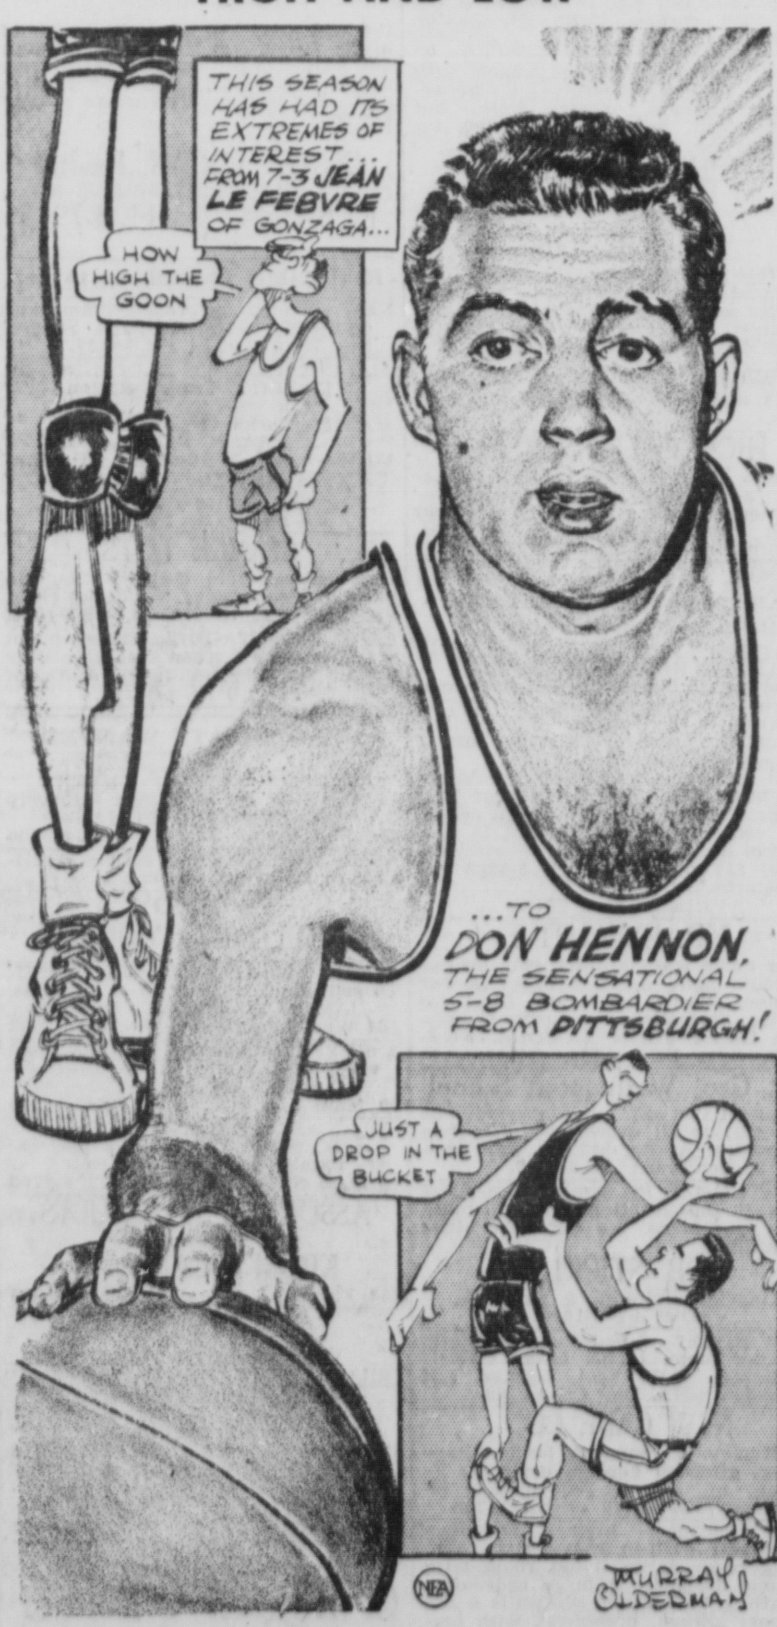

PANTHERS (33) Lewis 10, Covey 8, Quick 6, Boyd 5, Laefel 4.

LIONS (21) Felton 6, Potter 4, Kim 3, Van Ethen 6, O'Neil 2.

TIGERS (18) Schuler 8, Wadnola 4, Harjes 2, Quick 4, Bruck.

Approximately 120,000 new corporations were formed in New York State from 1951 to 1955.

HIGH AND LOW

HUSKY GOAL—Washington sweepstrikers stand behind a sign indicating where one crew will compete against world-wide opposition in the Regatta on the Thames River in England, July 2-5. The Huskies have been barred from National Collegiate Athletic Association regattas because of too vigorous football recruiting. No fewer than 142 oarsmen turned out.

BROOKLYN, (NEA)—The old-timer ordered a large beer at Peter Luger's, which is under the Williamsburg Bridge, and allowed that Walter O'Malley wasn't having half enough trouble in Los Angeles.

"Never saw so many people pulling for a guy to go broke," he said.

"But what good is that doing us? The Bums are gone and they haven't even put Zack Wheat in the Hall of Fame. The decimation is complete."

As remarkable as were the Dodgers in their last dozen years at Ebbets Field, the name of Wheat pops up every time the Flatbush Faithful get around to discussing the club's all-time greats.

At the party the baseball writers pitched for him, Babe Hamberger was asked to name the best ballplayer among all the Dodgers he met in the 37 years he has been with the club.

"That's easy," said Hamberger, who has been everything from batboy to custodian of the turnstiles, "Zack Wheat."

"The greatest fellow in all that time?" "Zack Wheat. No contest." It will please the suffering Brooklyn fans to hear that Wheat, who should have been there long ago, is sure to be named to the Hall of Fame by the old-timers' committee next year. Zack, you see, got caught in the switches. Under the new system of one group voting one year and the other the next, his name is not on the baseball writers' ballot this year.

ZACHARY DAVID WHEAT leads the all-time Dodgers everywhere but in the Hall of Fame, and the outfit is 68 years old. Wheat played the most games, had the most times at bat. He hit the most singles, doubles and triples, made the most hits and for the most bases. Current Dodgers will have to duplicate their present records to approach him.

Many fine players have performed in a Brooklyn uniform, but none won the admiration of the fans as did Wheat, the farm boy of Polo, Mo.

Larry Sutton, the great scout, spotted Wheat, a 21-year-old, in the Southern Association in 1909, and his contract cost the Dodgers $900. He came up that fall and played left field for 17 years. He had batting averages of .335 twice, .359 and hit .375 in successive years.

Wheat stood 5-10 and weighed a lithe 200 pounds. A left-hand, line drive hitter, Zack was an old-fashioned, tobacco-chewing, individualistic ballplayer with black piercing eyes, black hair and a sharp jaw.

WHEAT TWISTED THE HANDLE of a black bat until sawdust came out of it. He hit in a semi-crouch with his feet spread far apart. He wiggled his front foot digging in and when he brought the bat back to the hitting position went into a little shimmy before the swing uncoiled like a steel spring.

Wheat had innate class and was a leader in his own quiet way. Zack disliked only enemy pitchers, particularly big Jack Scott of the Giants, who was suspected of filing the ball with his belt buckle.

When a free-for-all fight broke out between the Dodgers and Giants, Zack Wheat, the part Indian, prowled around on the rim of the pack looking to waylay Scott.

"If I could have found him, I'da twisted his arm off," he said.

Dutra, Burke Are One-Two In PG Seniors

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Two men whose brothers won golfing fame in bygone days were running one-two going into today's final round of the PGA Seniors' golf tournament.

Big Mortie Dutra of Calexico, Calif., was pacing the field—just as he has since the tournament opened Wednesday—with a 69-71-73-213. Ed Burke of New Haven, Conn., was second at 73-70-72-215.

Dutra who won this event in 1955, never scored a big folfing victory in his younger days. His brother, Olin, won the national PGA title in 1932 and the U. S. Open two years later.

Burke likewise never crashed the big time. His brother, Billy, won the 1931 U. S. Open, in a historic 36-hole playoff with George Von Elm. Another brother, Pete, won the seniors' event in 1956.

Postal rules forbid mailing of dunning postals, and lottery, endless chain and fraud matter.

Accidents Mar First Day At World Bobsled Racing

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany (AP)—The first day of official training for the four-man bobsled world championships was marred by accidents, forcing racing officials to call off further training for the day.

Sweden's number one sled, with veteran pilot Sven Erbs behind the wheel, had a bad spill in the Lombardi bend of the Olympic bobsled run.

Erbs was hurled through the air and landed some 30 feet outside the track. His team was thrown off the sled but caught it and went down the track without their pilot.

Erbs, 46, who now lives in Hahnenklee in the Harz Mountain of Germany, apparently suffered a dislocated shoulder and head contusions.

Lennart Carlsson, an architect from Stockholm, appeared to have suffered a badly sprained right elbow.

Meantime, Eugenio Monti, who piloted the Italian sled to victory in the two-man bobsled championships, was rated one of the top contenders for the four-man title.

James Sheffield, of Lake Placid, N. Y., said "I think Monti, Germany's Hans Roesch and Hans Zoller, Switzerland, are the greatest challengers to our American teams."

Monti Scores Win. Monti, with brakeman Renzo Alvera, drove Italy's number one sled to victory yesterday in the two-man competitions.

Sheffield is confident that the two teams he'll finally nominate for the four-man competitions will conquer at least one bobsled title for the United States.

A total of four runs is being held in the world bobsled competitions and the best accumulated time from all runs counts for the title.

Only U. S. team to finish yesterday's competition was John Helmer, Plattsburgh, N. Y., and Charles Pandolph, Saranac Lake, N. Y. They placed a poor 11th in a field of 17 sleds from nine nations.

The other American team of Dick Severino, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and Clarence Sutton, Hampton, Va., withdrew after an accident in the third run of the four-het event.

The full nomination of American representation hinges on their showing at the practices to be held this week.

Navy Busy Trying To Send Vanguard Up in Few Days

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy is busy in another effort to get its temperamental Vanguard rocket off the ground in the next few days. Unless it performs quickly, the Army's Jupiter-C missile may be the first to shoot up a U. S. satellite.

Informal sources disclosed last night that bad weather and a frustrating series of mechanical bugs in the Vanguard spoiled several attempts to fire it last week. The first Vanguard blew up on its launching pad here last Dec. 6.

Way Off Schedule

These failures have thrown the U. S. satellite program far off schedule. If a goal set by President Eisenhower had been met, three or four tiny American "moons" would be in orbit now and the Vanguard would be set to launch bigger satellites in March.

The blowup of the first Vanguard — a highly-publicized mishap that damaged American prestige at a time when the Russian Sputniks were whirling around the earth — touched off strong public demand for a speed-up in the American program.

The latest try to fire the Vanguard covered several days last week. It was in progress Saturday night when Sputnik II, carrying a dead dog, darted across the Florida sky in plain view of the missile test center at Cape Canaveral.

Crew Asks Time

A few hours after that, the Vanguard crew called for more time. A curtain of secrecy surrounded the latest attempt. Facts were not made known to the public until last night.

The Air Force fired a Snark guided missile 5,000 miles to Ascension Island off the African coast Saturday. Informal sources said the missile "landed in its assigned impact area."

At the same time, the Navy was busy with the Vanguard. It was learned that a launching of the rocket was only a few minutes away Saturday when the attempt was postponed.

The Vanguard still is experimental—its second stage guidance "brain" never has been tested in flight. All components of the Jupiter-C have been flown and were reported to have performed well.

As its first stage, the Jupiter-C employs the dependable Redstone, a 200-mile missile. The Redstone was developed by Werner von Braun, German scientist who built the V-2 rocket with which London was bombed in World War II.

Authorities close to the Vanguard project said heavy rains—a rarity at this season in Florida—were troublesome during last week's firing attempts.

Teeners in Esopus Mishap Reported Fairly Good Today

Three teenage Poughkeepsie youths injured when their car went out of control on Route 9W in the hamlet of Esopus late Saturday night were reported in "fairly good" condition today at Kingston Hospital.

They are:

Philip Cooke, 17, laceration of the scalp.

Everett Van Nostrand, 18, broken collar bone.

Troopers A. W. Scrima and P. M. Luongo of the Highland state police reported that the boys were proceeding south in a 1955 sedan operated by Haga at the time of the mishap.

As the car rounded a slight curve to the left Haga felt the vehicle begin to skid. He lost control, the car striking a guard-rail on the west side of the road and knocking down a utility pole. It came to rest on the west side of the road lying on its right side.

Time of the mishap was listed as 11:30 p. m.

Merger of Egypt, Syria Is Seen Imminent: Report

CAIRO (AP) — The merger of Egypt and Syria into a single state is reported imminent. The newspaper Al Ahran said President Nasser and Syrian President Sukhri Kuwatly would announce the union today.

Top Egyptian and Syrian leaders proclaimed the advantages of the proposed federation, and the Cairo press gave it top play. The public emphasis on the plan apparently was timed to take the edge off the opening of the Baghdad Pact conference today in Ankara, Turkey.

Cairo Seen Capital
Al Ahran said Cairo would be the capital, the federation's name would be "The United Arab State" and there would be one government, one parliament and one army.

A plebiscite will be held in Egypt and Syria on the proposed union, Al Ahran said.

Nasser told visiting U. S. newspaper and radio editors yesterday Egypt and Syria have agreed on all except minor details.

Speeds Up Trek

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Dr. Vivian Fuchs radioed Scott Base today he was "going strong" 117 miles from the South Pole on his transantarctic trek.

Fuchs, who left the pole with his British party Friday, was continuing his speedup of the trek today.

Fuchs hopes to reach Scott Base, 1,200 miles from the pole, before the winter really sets in. It will be the first overland crossing of the Antarctic continent.

Two Girls Die in Fall From Railroad Trestle

BUFF CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Two frightened little girls were brushed to their deaths from a railroad trestle Saturday. Witnesses say one could have lived if she had abandoned the other.

It wasn't that 13-year-old Pamela Harmon didn't want to live. Twice her fright sent her scamping toward a water barrel where she could have pulled herself out of reach of danger.

But twice she turned again into the iron face of the oncoming train when her friend Dorothea Miller, 11, screamed. Dorothea's foot was caught in the trestle.

The second time Pamela put her arms around Dorothea and the two faced the unstoppable train together. They fell into the Holston River, 75 feet below.

The Szymanski car was pushed into a bank and concrete culvert.

The left front side of the Israel car and the entire left side of the Szymanski vehicle were heavily damaged.

Five Lose Lives

In Des Moines Fire

DES MOINES (AP) — Five persons died early today when fire swept through the Olympia Hotel in downtown Des Moines.

The hotel was located on the second and third floors of a building that housed Fortino's Tavern, the G and M Cafe and the Modern Huguene Corp. on the first floor.

The building is an old, brick three-story structure.

About 40 persons were in the hotel when the fire was discovered about 2:45 a. m. CST.

Tom Moritas, hotel owner, said he saw smoke pouring into the alley and called firemen. Moritas and room clerk Marguerite Nichols tried to awaken the sleeping guests, but the lights went out and smoke became too heavy before all could be alerted.

Four of the dead were identified as Owen Immel, 62; Everett Mart, 75, Melvin Allan, 75; and Joe Ingersoll, 70. The other victim was not identified immediately.

Firemen said all deaths were due to suffocation.

Guatemala Will Name President Within Few Days

GUATEMALA (AP) — Congress will learn in about a week which two candidates it will choose between in naming a new president of Guatemala.

Rightist Gen. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, 62 - year-old Reconciliation Party candidate who has been trying for the presidency for 17 years, won the largest number of votes in national elections on Jan. 19.

But since he failed to receive a majority, Congress has the task of naming the president. It must choose one from the two leading candidates.

Unofficial returns gave second place to Jose Luis Cruz Salazar, a moderate whose Democratic Nationalist Movement controls the lame duck Congress. Leftist Mario Mendez Montenegro claimed his count shows he ran second.

U. S. to Pay $1,748 To Husband of Girard Victim

TOKYO (AP) — The United States will pay the equivalent of $1,748 Wednesday to the husband of the Japanese woman GI William S. Girard killed on an Army firing range.

Anikichi Sakai, 47-year-old father of six children, refused to accept a payment of "consolation money" last September during Girard's manslaughter trial. He said he did not want to talk about money so soon after the death of his wife, Naka.

Later, at the urging of neighbors, Sakai submitted a claim for 800,000 yen ($2,224). Japanese authorities scaled it down to 629,396 yen ($1,748) and the U. S. Army approved the payment.

Two Are Injured In Saxton Mishap

Two persons suffered minor injuries Saturday night in a collision between a truck and a passenger car at the intersection of Routes 32 and 32A in Saxton.

Mrs. Mary Hill of Saugerties, with a bump on her forehead, and Viola Jungkind, 36, of Brooklyn, who suffered a lacerated right knee and a bruise on the bridge of her nose, told Kingston state police that they would see their own doctors.

Trooper Joseph Ventriglia reported that a 1954 truck, operated by Russell Hill, 70, of RD 1, Saugerties, and a passenger vehicle operated by Walter Weronko, 32, of New York City, were in head-on collision.

The truck was proceeding north on Route 32 and the passenger vehicle south, also on Route 32, he said.

Both applied their brakes at the intersection and skidded into each other, according to Trooper Ventriglia.

Mrs. Hill was a passenger in the truck, the other injured woman a passenger in the car.

Jesuit Editor Asks All Fight for Morals

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Thurston N. Davis, a Jesuit editor, urges that non-Catholics join with Roman Catholics to fight what he calls "a progressive debasement of public morals in the entertainment and the advertising world."

He reports a "smoldering hostility" toward the Legion of Decency, the Catholic group which gives moral ratings to motion pictures.

Father Davis made the statement yesterday in addressing 1,100 Roman Catholic employees, executives and performers in the motion picture industry at a communion breakfast. He is editor in chief of America, national Catholic weekly.

The legion is now expanding its
